

Navy Patrol Plane Attacked by MIGs Over Sea of Japan

Tail Gunner Badly Wounded As His Gun Is Knocked Out

Washington—AP—A navy patrol plane was attacked by MIG jet fighters over international waters of the Sea of Japan yesterday and one of the crew was seriously wounded, the defense department reported today.

The incident, in which two MIG fighters were believed to have made the attack, occurred about 85 miles east of Wonsan, North Korea.

No Warning Given

The first reports received here did not make clear whether the American plane returned the fire.

Neither did those reports identify the attacking planes by nationality. The MIGs are Russian-type planes used by the Soviets, red Chinese and North Koreans.

Radio reports said the jets attacked without warning, firing tracer ammunition, the Pentagon announcement said.

"Thought to be two in number, they made six firing runs

FCC Firm on Equal Time in Political Races

Won't Reverse Self in America First Party Case

Washington—AP—The federal communications commission today refused to reverse its ruling that political candidates are entitled to equal time on newscasts by radio and television stations.

The ruling was issued last February on a complaint by Lar Daly, running as the America First candidate for mayor of Chicago, that he wasn't getting as much time on newscasts as candidates of the major parties.

President Eisenhower called the ruling ridiculous, and Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers later filed a brief with the FCC urging reversal of the ruling.

No Formal Opinion

In rejecting petitions by the broadcasting industry for reconsideration of its position, the commission did not immediately issue a formal opinion.

However, the commission was reported to have taken the position that it had no choice except to follow the wording of the law on the books, which it has read to mean that any use of a broadcasting facility by a political candidate requires that the same facility be made available to all other candidates.

A provision in the federal communications act requires that political candidates be given equal opportunity for broadcasting.

This has been generally interpreted as meaning that if broadcast time is given or sold to one candidate it must be made available on the same terms to the other candidates in the same race.

Until the February FCC decision, there had been no idea in the broadcasting industry that the provision applied to news coverage of political campaigns.

In the brief he filed with FCC, Atty. Gen. Rogers took the position that it would be "common sense" to interpret the law as exempting newscasts from the equal time provision.

Gromyko and Herter Discuss Talks' Future

The Key to Appleton was presented Charlie House as he paused in his 1,000-mile canoe trip from Montreal. At the ceremonies at Lutz park were, from the left, Mayor Clarence Mitchell; V. I. Minahan, Post-Crescent editor; Charlie, and Emil Walther, president of the Outagamie County Historical society.

Diplomats Wonder if Russian Minister Has New Proposals From Moscow

Geneva—AP—Andrei A. Soviet foreign minister turns Gromyko and Sec. of State it down.

Christian A. Herter met unexpectedly today at Gromyko's request to discuss the Britain's pressure for an early final phase of the Big Four summit meeting with the conference on Berlin.

There was immediate speculation among western diplomats that Gromyko might have some new proposal either on breaking the east-west deadlock over Berlin or on how to wind up the conference.

Earlier Herter met with British Foreign Sec. Selwyn Lloyd amid reports that the western powers were split over the problem of a summit conference following up the foreign ministers meeting.

Britain was reported urging U.S. and French consideration of accepting a summit session with Russia even if the present meeting ended in failure.

Goes to Herter's Villa

The Soviet foreign minister went to Herter's villa. In another conference crisis last week Herter had gone to Gromyko's villa. The Russian was accompanied by A. A. Soldatov, chief of the American section of the Soviet foreign office.

Herter had Assistant Sec. of State Livingston Merchant and Llewellyn Thompson, U. S. ambassador to Moscow, as his advisers in the meeting.

The western allies were reported making an eleventh hour attempt to hammer out a stopgap accord on Berlin with the Soviet Union.

Diplomatic officials said foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France may present Gromyko in secret session tomorrow a new document setting forth their latest ideas on a possible east-west arrangement for the divided city.

The general terms are under study by western experts. The western ministers will decide just how to present the proposal, who should do it and what is to happen if the

Hunt for 2 Killers

Captive Free After 10 Days With Pair

Middleboro, Mass.—AP—and local police, some two more than 300 heavily-armed FBI agents, law enforcement today stalked two alleged police killers in a swampy woodland after gun-fire forced the pair to abandon a man they had held captive for 10 nearly-foodless days.

Objects of the concentrated manhunt are John Coyle, 23, and his brother, William, 21, both of Philadelphia, known to be armed with five pistols and three belts of ammunition.

For more than three hours early today it was feared that two college girls had fallen hostages to the desperado pair, until the girls were spotted by police at a roadblock in Bourne, where Cape Cod begins.

Gunman Yields Self, Hostage

Charleston, Ill.—AP—A berserk gunman who had held his half-sister hostage while a force of lawmen ringed his house laid down his arms and walked out without gunfire today.

Kenneth E. Adkins, 22, also released his half-sister, Mrs. Myra Irene Kennedy, 34, of Paris, without harm.

The end of the tense vigil around the white frame house came after Mervin Beil, a lawyer, talked with Adkins for about 10 minutes explaining his rights.

It came also as the force of lawmen were loading up for a blast on the house with tear gas. Authorities said they felt Adkins was giving them a run-around and might keep the community in turmoil for hours.

Fox Cities Crowds Give Charlie House Welcome

3,000 at Menasha, Near End of 1,000-Mile Voyage From Canada

BY JAY JOSLYN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Menasha—Some 3,000 people swarmed into Smith park and lined the Menasha locks and canal Monday night to welcome Charlie House as he neared the end of his history-making 1,000-mile canoe trip from Montreal in the wake of Jean Nicolet.

Charlie awakened latent interest in history as he stepped ashore behind the Memorial building, in sight of the marker that commemorates Jean Nicolet's landing in 1634.

Mayor R. G. DuCharme and Mrs. John Wilterding, president of the Menasha Historical society, greeted him at the water's edge and two members of the Valley Council Boy Scouts Order of the Arrow performed a ceremonial dance.

First White Settler

Mayor DuCharme reminisced about his own ancestry, which goes back to the first white settler in the Fox Cities area and the entire Northeastern section of the state. He urged Charlie to reprint his two concurrent terms of up to three years each in the state prison at Waupun.

Charlie told the some 2,000 persons pushing against the speaker's platform that his wearying trip had made him a humble man in the realization that the hardships Nicolet and the other early explorers and settlers must have gone through.

He said no stretch of imagination based on the so-called wild west heroes as portrayed on television could come close to the adventures and hardships, the need for raw

Gunaca Sent to Prison Maximum Sentence in Kohler Strike Assault

Sheboygan—AP—A former United Auto Workers union representative was sentenced to prison Monday after pleading no contest to felonious assault charges stemming from a 1954 Kohler company strike incident.

John Gunaca, a 35-year-old Detroit once employed by the UAW, was sentenced to the state prison at Waupun.

Gunaca was accused of assaulting William Bersch, Jr., 33, and his late father, William Bersch, Sr., 44, at a nearby Sheboygan Falls service station. The father and son were non-striking workers at the Kohler company, where Local 833 of the UAW has been on strike since April 5, 1954.

The main issues when the strike began were over wages and union security. The firm returned to production with new workers and non-strikers.

Overrode Prosecutor

Sentencing Gunaca ended a long delay in the case. Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams on several occasions refused to extradite Gunaca, contending it would be impossible for him to receive a fair trial in Wisconsin because of the bitterness arising from the strike. However, Williams extradited Gunaca last December.

Circuit Judge Clarence E. Rinehard overrode the recommendation of Dist. Atty. David Weber in sentencing Gunaca to the prison terms. Weber suggested that Gunaca be

Judge Delays Decision on Gov. Earl Long

Galveston, Texas—AP—Gov. Earl Long of Louisiana, who says he wants to return to his home state and enter a New Orleans hospital, was back in a Texas mental clinic today for at least another week while a judge pondered whether to free him.

Dist. Judge L. D. Godard said last night after the habeas corpus hearing he felt more time should be spent studying the case before he ruled on it. He ordered Long back to the mental clinic while he delayed his decision one week.

Hearing Postponed

Judge Godard also announced postponement of today's sanity hearing after a conference with Probate Judge Hugh Gibson, who would have presided over the session. The sanity hearing was moved back one week.

But Sen. Russell Long, La., the governor's nephew and son of the late Sen. and Gov. Huey P. Long, disagreed with Judge Godard's postponement.

"It seems to be a very crucial point has been overlooked," said Sen. Long, who attended the hearing but was barred from testifying by court order.

Airman Admits He Killed Wife

St. Paul—AP—Police said today a former Park Falls, Wis., airman, John E. Phillips, 24, has signed a statement admitting he strangled his 21-year-old wife after an argument over money.

Her body was found in the bedroom of their home here Monday night after Phillips went to the home of a neighbor and said, "I just killed my wife." Their daughter, Kathleen, 4 months, was asleep in her crib.

Mrs. Phillips was the former Joan Holgard of Park Falls. They were married April 26, 1958.

Phillips, who has been stationed at Fort Snelling for about four months, is held without charge.

Confident Democrats Challenge President to Seek Verdict of Public; 'We're Ready to Fight'

Washington — P — "Confident Democrats challenge President Eisenhower today to seek a verdict from the people on his legislative program."

If Eisenhower carries his case to the public in television-radio and other speeches, Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) said the Democrats will be ready to fight.

"We'll carry our fight to the people, too, on the basis of the record we are making in

Firm Won't Change Plans

Simmons Company To Leave Kenosha, Governor Reports

Madison — P — The Simmons company, one of the nation's largest bedding and furniture makers, will not change its plans to close its Kenosha plant, Gov. Gaylord Nelson said Monday.

Nelson, who said he met with company officials in Chicago in an attempt to head off closure of the plant, said the firm advised him the end of operations at Kenosha is part of a long range plan and that it would be impossible to alter the decision.

The governor said Simmons officials told him they hope the majority of the Kenosha employees can find employment with the Kenosha Harbor Development corporation, the firm which bought Simmons' facilities.

Nelson said he met with Grant G. Simmons Jr., president of the company; Joseph Quarles, vice president; R. H. Weyrough, general manager, and Eugene Hammond, mayor of Kenosha.

Another conference with Simmons officials, Nelson said, has been slated for June 30 in New York City.

See Quick Action on Proposal to Increase National Debt Limit

Washington — P — A house committee may vote quickly to increase the national debt limit but delay action on permitting higher interest rates for government bonds.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.) said he would ask the house ways and means committee today to vote separately on the two proposals. President Eisenhower combined in a single bill.

Some members have argued that the debt limit change is needed by June 30 and the committee should take more time on the more controversial proposal on bond interest rates.

The national debt is now nearly $286 billion, but unless congress acts the legal limit drops to $283 billion on July 1.

Bill Tightening Sale Of Cars to Teenagers Sent to Governor

Madison — P — A bill tightening restrictions on the sale of automobiles to minors cleared the senate Monday night and was sent to the governor.

The proposal would require all persons under 18 to have a verified written parental consent to purchase an auto. Dealers who did not comply with the consent provision would be subject to a maximum penalty of a $200 fine and a six-month jail term.

The 90-minute evening session also saw the senate:

Approve an assembly-passed measure to exempt lead dogs from the blind from a license fee.

Pass a measure to create an administration division in the motor vehicle department.

Doctor Says He Believes Jane Is Sane

Claims She Was Aware of Nature Of Double Slaying

Mauston — P — Dr. Joseph Weber, a Milwaukee psychiatrist, said Monday he believes admitted slayer Jane Dakin was sane the night her parents were shot to death.

"She was sane at the time the act was committed," Dr. Weber testified, "and she is sane now. She knew right from wrong and was aware of the nature and quality of her acts."

Miss Dakin, a 17-year-old high school student, has admitted the automatic rifle slayings of her father, Thomas, 46, and her mother, Elizabeth, 43, the night of Dec. 1. She has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to two counts of first degree murder at her Circuit Court trial before Judge Bruce Beilfuss.

Observed Actions
Dr. Weber said that his opinion to Miss Dakin being mentally ill would have to be negative. He said this was based on examination of Miss Dakin and observing her actions on many occasions.

She was able to participate in group activity Nov. 30 by attending a movie with others, Dr. Weber said, in addition to roller skating and driving an automobile. He said that on Dec. 1 her actions were normal, that she was able to eat her meals, answer the door when visitors called and complete the rather complicated process of loading the rifle though she had only done it once before.

Rational Action
Dr. Weber also said that after the shootings Miss Dakin's actions were rational in that she could drive an automobile.

"These acts required coordinated movements," Dr. Weber said, "and were not the acts of an insane person."

He added that he did not believe her statements of attempted suicides were genuine, but were attempts to gain sympathy.

"Desire for immediate gratification in this girl was immense," Dr. Weber said. "She has always wanted things when she wanted them — right away."

Miss Dakin's trial entered its third week Monday.

Daughter of Premier Tojo Has No Dislike for America

Seattle — P — The daughter of Japan's wartime premier, whose father was hanged as a war criminal in 1948, has no dislike for America for what happened.

"I've met many Americans in Japan and they are nice people. I know I will make friends here," said Kimie Tojo.

The smiling and attractive 27-year-old daughter of the late Hideki Tojo visited with a former college classmate at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor tomorrow to study international politics on a scholarship.

On her arrival by plane last night from Tokyo, Miss Tojo said of her father that he was the four daughters and three sons of a very sweet, very kind person.

She visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Albin today. Mrs. Albin and Miss Tojo were roommates at Ibaraki Christian college near Tokyo in 1951-53. Mrs. Albin said Miss Tojo was a "diligent student; the straight 'A' type."

Miss Tojo had planned to come to America to study at Portia Law school in Boston. She dropped those plans. She is a graduate of Ibaraki college and has a master's degree in international politics from Hosei university, Japan. She is the youngest of four daughters and three sons of the late premier.

Air Control Center Immune From A-Bomb

Complex of Tunnels Dug Deep in Heart Of Mountain Near West German Village

BY VERN HAUGLAND

Kaiserslautern, Germany — An air war control center, as nearly immune from atomic attack as a structure can be, is nearing completion deep inside a mountain not far from this West German town.

Known as the combat operation center of the advance echelon headquarters of the U.S. air forces in Europe (US-AFE), the complex of tunnels was inspected by a party of U.S. newsmen touring NATO installations in Europe.

Finishing Touches
Col. Edward S. F. Newbury of Bakersfield, Calif., director of the center, said finishing touches are being applied and the German contractor will turn over the completed project to the U.S. command in about three weeks. But the underground headquarters is already in operation.

The center maintains an air defense screen over the central part of Europe day and night to protect the Atlantic alliance from sneak attack.

Manned by a staff of 125, the center constantly plots by radar all air movements within its area of responsibility on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

It can dispatch tactical air weapons at a moment's notice for offensive strike missions if needed.

Newbury said more than 1,000 telephone calls are relayed over the center's communication system daily.

The facility also uses more than 80 teletype machines, in addition to high frequency and very high frequency radio.

Russian Aircraft
As newsmen watched, more than 30 unidentified aircraft were being tracked on the far side of the Iron Curtain in Czechoslovakia and East Germany.

"It is a beautiful, clear day and the communists are doing a lot more flying around than usual," Newbury said.

Most of the communist planes veered off before reaching the West German border. Those that did not were quickly identified as commercial aircraft flying regular air routes between east and west.

TV's Superman Takes Own Life In Hollywood
Hollywood — P — Actor George Reeves, 44, the "Superman" of television, died early today of a gunshot wound. Police said Reeves took his own life.

He was found dead on a bed in his home in Benedict canyon, an exclusive residential area in the hills above Beverly Hills.

Reeves starred in scores of the "Superman" films. Although the series was discontinued, reruns are appearing in cities in many parts of the nation. They are highly popular in Japan.

Reeves started in films 20 years ago with a minor role in "Gone With The Wind." He appeared in many featured roles before achieving fame five years ago when "Superman" swept into popularity.

The husky, dark-haired actor complained to a Hollywood writer recently that he wasn't getting enough other roles because he was type-cast as Superman. He realized a handsome income, however, from payments for re-use of the filmed series. He directed many of them.

"If Joy arrives in Long Beach with her divorce decree, she is eligible," contest representative Robert Oliver said last night. "If she does not have a divorce, she is automatically out of the contest and Nevada will not be represented."

To Set Trial For Plotting

Union Officials, 4 Others Accused In Textile Strike

Henderson, N.C. — P — Eight men, including four union officials, accused of plotting dynamite violence in the bitter textile strike here, are expected to be tried soon at a special term of court.

The Vance county grand jury returned three separate bills of indictment Monday against each of the men.

Boyd Payton of Charlotte, Carolina's director of the Textile Workers Union of America, was named in the indictments, along with three other union officials.

They are Lawrence Gore, a member of Payton's staff; Charles Auslander, chairman of the TWU's bi-city joint board at Spray, N.C., and John Martin, vice president of Local 578 at the South Henderson plant of the struck Harriet - Henderson cotton mills.

Four strikers named in the indictments were Calvin Ray Pegram, Robert Edward Abbott, Warren Walker and Malcolm Jarrell. Each was freed under $15,000 bond.

The indictments charged the men with conspiring to: (1) dynamite a Caroline Power and Light company substation transformer which feeds power to the Harriet-Henderson mills; (2) dynamite the boiler room at the South Henderson mill, and (3) destroy the main office building at the South Henderson mill.

Cuba Rebuffs Fears of U. S.
Havana — P — Cuba has rebuffed a U. S. note expressing concern over compensation for American-owned lands to be taken over under Fidel Castro's land redistribution program.

A 5-page communication signed by Foreign Minister Raul Roa declared Castro's government does not intend to change its plan to pay for expropriated lands with 20-year bonds.

The note said the revolutionary government can't pay in cash and right away because Bausta's regime had looted the treasury. It added that an adverse trade balance with the United States of a billion dollars over the past decade contributed to Cuba's uncertain financial position.

Union Leaders Admit Short Work Week Plans Temporarily Stymied

Complain Employers Have Them Cornered Through Phony Charges

Philadelphia — P — A group tract gains bargained for over of top union leaders, com the past 18 years. But he plained today employers have pledged his union "positively them cornered for the mo-will never take a backward ment. But they said they will rally to win new gains for workers."

Overstating Case
The steel union chief said the industry has indicated it will raise wages about 6 1/2 cents an hour but wants to cancel worker benefits which McDonald said were worth at least $2 an hour.

He did not elaborate but other unionists attending the conference said McDonald seemed to be considerably overstating his case. Present steel wages average $3.08 an hour.

Phony Charges
Such union leaders as Walter Reuther of the auto workers, David J. McDonald of the steelworkers and James B. Carey of the international electrical workers asserted the business charges are phony but nevertheless have put labor in a tough position with the public.

The talks were made in a 2-day conference of the AFL-CIO's industrial union department, home of most of the former CIO unions under the labor merger.

Tortilla-Eating Seen to Lessen Absorption of Radioactive Material
Mexico City — P — One of Mexico's top nuclear scientists says people who eat a lot of tortillas apparently absorb less strontium 90 from nuclear explosions than other persons.

Dr. Carlos Graef Fernandez said Mexicans have absorbed less of the damaging radioactive particles from fallout than inhabitants of many other countries.

He said this probably is due to the abundance of calcium in tortillas, a staple in the Mexican diet. Calcium, he said, lessens the strontium bones absorb.

Tortillas are very thin cakes of fine corn meal which has been treated with lime. Graef Fernandez, head of the sciences faculty at the University of Mexico, said tortilla-eating people of the state of New Mexico also apparently absorb less strontium 90.

Nixon Returns To East After Weekend Visit
Los Angeles — P — Vice President Nixon left for Baltimore early today by jet after a weekend visit to his native southern California.

During his stay Nixon spoke at graduation exercises at his alma mater, Whittier college, and at the Catholic University of San Diego.

He also visited the small frame house where he was born in Yorba Linda and took his family to Disneyland amusement park in Anaheim.

At the University of San Diego yesterday, the vice president was presented an honorary doctor of laws degree—the university's first.

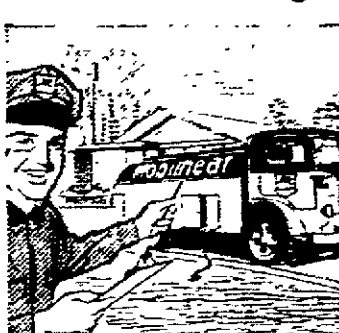

Wearing a cap and gown, Nixon told the 32 members of the university's second graduating class:

"We never want uniformity and conformity in education. Private schools and colleges give a constant leavening to the educational system to assure that it will have new ideas."

Nixon was accompanied on the trip by his wife, Pat, and their daughters, Patricia, 13, and Julie, 10. They remained here today as he returned to the east.

Charlie's a Hero

Up, Down River Crowds Gather on Banks to Welcome Traveler Home

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Our Charlie is a hero, whether he likes it or not. An enthusiastic crowd of about 150 persons gathered on the river bank at Lutz park proved it Monday afternoon as they welcomed a sun-burned, bewhiskered Charlie House home. So did many other residents of the Fox Cities along his river route.

Telephones kept ringing all morning at the Post-Crescent with the constant query that became a theme song, "Where's Charlie now?" One woman reversed the procedure with the message, "Thought you'd like to know, Charlie just passed Ballard road."

When the "Green Apple" with Charlie aboard put-putted around a weather-beaten boat house into the lagoon harbor at Lutz park at 3:15, he was but five minutes behind schedule in his 1,000-mile adventure of re-tracing the water journey made by explorer Jean Nicolet in 1634.

There was a brief moment of hushed watching as Charlie took to his paddle and guided his craft between the two piers. As the nose of the canoe scrunched against the gravel on the shore, it served as a signal.

Applause Rings Out

The crowd broke into applause. Camera shutters started clicking. Hands reached out to shake a friendly hello. Youngsters long perched on the two docks awaiting his arrival raced shoreward to get closer to and exchange grins with this man fresh from the wilderness country. They eyed his sheathed hunting knife hung on his belt, saw with satisfaction that he was wearing moccasins and noted the brightly beaded medallion hung round his neck, a gift from the Winnebago Indians.

Then the questions began. These were people who read his columns, who followed his trip faithfully since the day he put his canoe into the water at Montreal a month ago. They felt like old friends and told him so.

There was a bit of a ceremony, but it was more or less casual. The folks were too interested in talking to Charlie.

Gets Key to City

Mayor Clarence Mitchell presented the traveler with a big key to the city as the official welcoming gesture and Emil A. Walther, president of the Outagamie County Historical society, was on hand to greet him. As were V. I. Minahan, editor and executive vice president of the Post-Crescent, and E. L. Bisel, news editor.

In between posing for pictures, handshaking and signing autographs, Charlie also received a new boat motor as a gift from the Luebbe Boat Sales in Appleton and the Regal Marine Mart in Neenah.

"I've been worried about you ever since that bear got after you," said one woman. "What does mullein tea taste like?" asked a young girl. "How did you know what to eat in the woods?" inquired a man. "This is one of the most interesting things that has happened in Appleton," said one bystander. "It has brought history to mind in a vivid manner."

"Hey Charlie," called a man in a car and as Charlie turned courteously, the fellow snapped his picture beamed and yelled, "Thanks," as he drove off.

Takes Movies

Mrs. Norman Moe, route 2, Appleton, was another busy camera fan, taking movies of the event from the time the canoeist arrived in Kaukauna. She said that when Charlie went under the bridge at Little Chute, he took off his hat and waved. "It was thrilling," she confided.

The people were intrigued with any detail of the trip Charlie had to offer. They hung onto his words and followed him around. Before too long, Charlie was giving what amounted to an impromptu lecture, all in answer to questions.

He explained how his interest in botany was helpful in choosing plant foods in the wilds and that nature is bountiful in her provisions, except for salt. This he carried with him. He told how the first two weeks on the trail toughened him up for the hardships of the trip. "I found out you get tough pretty fast," he said, and got the admiring answer, "That all depends on who is doing it."

Shows Weed Cleanser

"You ladies might like to know about a good weed for scouring pans," Charlie said and walked over to his canoe to show them a sample. "Why, it's what we call snake grass," one exclaimed, remembering how it makes an efficient cleanser when pulled into pieces.

Charlie carefully explained all his gear, lifting high his tent roll, grub sack and what he laughingly called his "wardrobe bag."

"Here's what the bear

Charlie's Face Shows How tired he is after his long trek by canoe from Montreal. Following the "canoe steps" of the historic Jean Nicolet is not an easy task, Charlie well knows. did," he said as he held up the equipment the animal had torn. "If you should see a bear smoking a pipe, report him immediately, especially if he's underage," Charlie quipped. The chuckle spread into hearty laughter as the story was repeated.

Charlie became completely serious when one man asked him how he ever made the trip. "It was very, very hard," he answered "and to be truthful, I don't know how I did it. I think the trip is impossible for a man to make alone."

Charlie carefully explained all his gear, lifting high his tent roll, grub sack and what he laughingly called his "wardrobe bag."

Autographs were the order of the day at Menasha despite Charlie House's objection that his signature was worthless. Hundreds of youngsters pressed all kinds of papers, including used popside sticks, at Charlie to sign. Charlie used the youngsters' foreheads for writing tables—to the youngsters' amusement.

Charlie House Wins Youngsters' Hearts

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1 ed him at the locks, along the canal and at the park. His arrival was heralded by brass on the Menasha Wood-en Ware company whistle, a traditional signal for important events in old-time Menasha, and he was escorted from the locks to the park by the Fox river all day director served as master of ceremonies. He outlined Men-to the first man ever to make nasha's interest in the Nico-the 1,000-mile Nicolet trek by himself.

Charlie said his adventure had produced many fearsome moments, but the most fright-dant of Nicolet-er to him was the sight of the mass of people that greet-tionality groups that make up the population of Menasha Sidney Wilson, a recent im-migrant, represented the En-glish. Miss Ethel MacKinnon a member of one of the first families in Menasha, brought Charlie the "greetings of all the clans" of Scotland, and Edward Corry of another long-time Menasha family repre-sented the Irish.

Robert Loeschner addressed Charlie in German, to which Charlie responded in vaude-ville accents that he did not understand too much Ger-man. John Pawlowski, Jr., addressed Charlie in Polish, to which Charlie responded in kind.

Charlie brought encourage-ment to George Friedrich, Nassau street, president of the Little Wolf Mining and Minerals, Inc., when the two compared a sample of the rich Blind River, Canada, uranium. Charlie had with a sample from the Little Wolf's Big Falls claim. The Geiger count on the samples was comparable.

When the formal program was ended, the kids took over. Charlie was untiring, shaking hundreds of little hands and signing unnumbered au-tographs, some on very make-shift papers such as popcycle sticks and gum wrappers. After the police separated him from the crowd of youngsters, they escorted him on a trip through the city where "Hi Charlie" greetings provided added evidence that his long, exhausting trip had been followed avidly by Fox Cities people and that he had indeed become a new hero of the valley.

More Stories After the "Green Apple" was safely stored in the Memorial building, Charlie relaxed at Mrs. Wilterding's home and, true to his profes-sion, he started spinning yarns, some a retelling of ad-ventures printed in his col-umns and many that indicate the "Green Apple's" voyage along Jean Nicolet's path will be a subject of many columns to come.

At 8 a. m. today, the "Green Apple" was taken from the Memorial building and launched in the Fox river for its last job, on this assign-ment, carrying Charlie to Oshkosh to deliver an Indian artifact from Canada to the Oshkosh museum.

Charlie House is a tired man whose face shows the hard-ships he has gone through in the last month, but Monday demonstrated to him the loneli-ness and fatigue he experi-enced was not done in a vacuum. The people of the Fox valley appreciated what he did and their applause and praise must have proved to him he had made their lives fuller because of his experi-ences.

'This Is Your Life' To Catch Dick Clark

Next Week's Program Taped June 3 While Rock-Roll Idol Was in Hollywood

BY JINGO
Dick Clark, idol of the rock-roll set, will be honored by Ralph Edwards as the principal subject of "This Is Your Life" next week Wednesday on NBC-TV.

This is not by way of spilling a secret, for the whole program was taped on June 3 when Clark was in Hollywood for a 1-day visit.

Clark was surprised at a conference on teenage music. His wife and 2-year-old son, Lew Klein, executive producer of his ABC-TV show and others then helped Clark re-create his life.

Judging from mail alone, Clark has earned the title of Pied Piper of popular music. He averages some 40,000 letters a week and a steady stream of visitors at his Philadelphia office.

Frank Hurley, professor of English at the University of Wisconsin and Minnesota for 17 years and now, with his wife, the author of CBS-TV's "Search for Tomorrow," has this to say about soap operas:

"Soap operas have reached

Show's Demise Blow to Culture On Television

Robert Merrill Says Need Creative People Behind the Scenes

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
New York — P— With the Voice of Firestone silenced, the last bastion of musical culture on television is the Ed Sullivan show.

At least, Sullivan often hires opera stars and permits them to mix an aria into his weekly potpourri of Merrill acrobats, animal acts, tap dancers and standup comics. Demise of the popular musical show, which the network felt wasn't popular enough, was loudly mourned by its fans. It was just one more blow absorbed by a minority of viewers who like their Beethoven neat and their classics pure. It closed one of the few doors through which classical musicians could enter TV, a medium which uses a lot of music and a lot of singers, but mostly of the pop and semi-pop variety.

Behind Scenes Push
"What we really need is creative people behind the scenes who are interested in doing something with the classics and with musicians," says Robert Merrill, Metropolitan opera baritone who is one of the few performers with opera-trained voices to benefit much from television. "We need somebody in television who wants to do what few directors, including Ernest Lubitsch, did for people like Grace Moore, Lily Pons, Nino Martini and Maria Callas."

Merrill is not only concerned about the death of classical music on television, but about the lack of opportunities for new talent to develop.

However, he thinks that many of the classical musicians have something to learn if they expect television doors to open to them.

Artists Can Improve

"I say that a lot of opera and concert artists should be more concerned with their appearance," he said. "We are going into new areas of show business, and opera singers are certainly a part of show business—with the result that we should be more conscious of our dieting, our clothes, even our acting. Women singers can learn a lot from girls like Dinah Shore, and there are plenty of male performers we men can take tips from."

After years, Merrill earns about 26 per cent of his annual income from television appearances. From now on, this may be reduced. "I fear, of course, I can find somebody who wants to do a series called 'Hoping Bizzotto,'" he added. "It's discouraging. I admit. Young singers coming along still are more interested in singing opera than anything else. And a lot of good singers are working hard in Europe. But we're a young country. Some day we'll catch up—cultural ly."

Bad Luck Tripled

Florence, Ala. — P— For Mrs. Joe E. Campbell, tragedy came in triplicate. Her son David, 28, lost a leg in an automobile accident, and her son Charles, 30, suffered a broken leg in the same accident. While she was checking on the injuries, Billy, 14, was notified that her son Billy, 14, had fallen from a tree. Both his arms were broken.

Her tour of the hospital was made to publicize the benefit premiere of her movie, "Say One for Me," the proceeds going to the hospital. The movie will open Wednesday in Appleton at the Viking theater.

What's New in TV World? Program of Commercials

Hollywood — P— Next on pitches of talking dogs, dancing bears, etc., into entertaining nothing but commercials.

Station KTTV of Los Angeles believes its viewers are going to enjoy it.

So, come July 11, the 6:30-7 p.m. slot on Saturday nights will be filled with the best spot commercials the station can assemble from the nation's advertising agencies.

The idea comes from Richard A. Moore, president of KTTV, who started thinking of one evening when his daughter interrupted a conversation to watch a commercial.

Predicts Popularity
"We'll put this program on its fifth season here. In the title roles were Richard Easton as an impish, past-the-public, young and old, sonate, but brave Romeo, will find it highly pleasing. I and Inga Swenson as a love-predict that it will draw a big, ger audience than many No Festival's repertory compa-commercial content," said ny.

Moore. The season opened in the Festival's largest theater, which already have offered their theater commercial. Inquiries have of Shakespeare's time. Two of been received from 40 others, the bard's other works. "The Moore says the program Merry Wives of Windsor" and will have a "name" master "All's Well That Ends Well," of ceremonies to tie the sales will play here this season.

Somebody Goofed: United States Should Resign From Olympics

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
New York — Somebody in the International Olympic committee goofed and the United States should resign from the Olympics. The 1960 winter contests of the International Olympic committee are to be held in Squaw Valley, Calif., which is in the United States, and those who come to the games require American visas to get into the country. If those visas are refused by the State Department, it will be proof that the State Department still conducts the foreign policy of the United States. If any athletes from red China or Iron Curtain, have a different definition of "amateur" than we do. In a communist country, where there is no private enterprise, everybody works for the state. A man who devotes himself to athletics is neither an amateur nor a professional in such a country. He is, in effect, a citizen who works for the state. He actually serves the state by engaging in sports activities. In fact, at certain periods of American moral rigidity, if an amateur athlete accepted any gift he was debarred from non-professional sports. Actually, it was the American colleges which lowered the morals of sportsmanship by providing "athletic scholarships" to football players and such, thus establishing the rule that compensation to amateurs is permissible if called by another name. Racketeers got into the basketball business and corrupted that. Baseball became entirely professional. Nevertheless, there is still, in the western world, considerable amateur sportsmanship and while sports do not have the widespread appeal that they had before movies and television and the automobile attracted youngsters, contests in the games continue. The International Olympic committee agrees to abide by the will of the strong and, in effect, tells the weak that if they want to participate in the Olympic Games, they must change — their name may no longer be China. It is like telling an athlete with a non-wasp name that he must change it to be acceptable. This is not sport; it is politics and the International Olympic committee does not exist for politics. New $20,000 Store Building Permit Issued Kaakauna — A building permit to construct a new business establishment was issued Monday by Lothar Kemp, building inspector, to Harlow Wickert, Harry Dietz and Louis Dietz, Appleton. The trio will have Dick Oud-enhoven construction erect a 50 by 64 building at 118 W. Third street. Cost of the building is estimated at $20,000. It will be a single story structure of 12-inch block and brick and when completed will house an automotive supply store. The building is being constructed on a lot which formerly held an old home, razed last year.

ganda by demonstrating, which Russia seeks to do, its superiority in every field of human endeavor.

Different Status

In western countries, amateur standing is altogether different. It means that a perfect, a citizen who works for a sport; that he receives no compensation for his sports activities. In fact, at certain periods of American moral rigidity, if an amateur athlete accepted any gift he was debarred from non-professional sports.

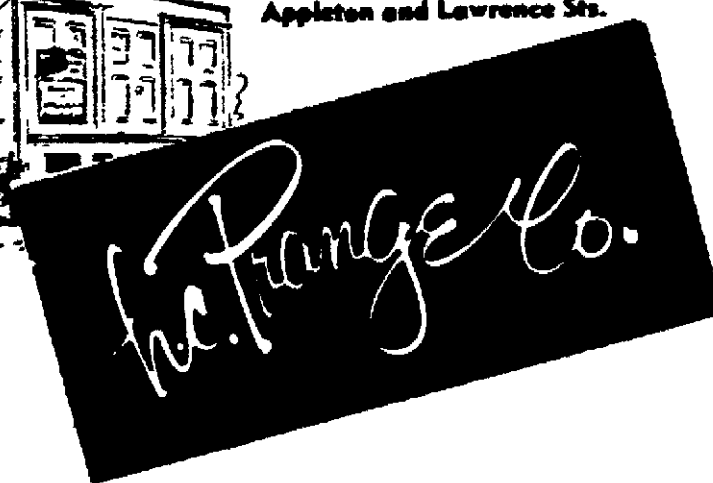

Actually, it was the American colleges which lowered the morals of sportsmanship by providing "athletic scholarships" to football players and such, thus establishing the rule that compensation to amateurs is permissible if called by another name. The Court Holds the Press in Contempt

The first amendment to the Constitution forbids Congress to make any law abridging the freedom of the press. It values freedom of the press in precisely the same terms as it does freedom of religion and freedom of speech. It does not permit the judiciary as a whole or any court or judge thereof to abridge any of these freedoms.

Through the years, the courts have abridged the freedom of the press. They have done this, in a large measure, for the protection of the American people and orderly procedure. Because the press itself has at various times, including the present, been invaded by racketeer elements or has had foolish leadership, it has recognized and even applauded many of the restrictions imposed by the courts.

The courts themselves have not been exempt from venality. Judges of popular repute have on some occasions become the creatures of the politicians who made them. Some have sold out to the highest bidders. Others have become henchmen of the underworld. In most cases, these have met their downfall only when a courageous and honest newspaper refused to abridge the public's right to know the facts.

Superior Court Judge Durwood Pye of Atlanta, Ga., has imposed a fine of $20,000 on the Atlanta Newspapers, Inc., publishers of the Constitution and the Journal, because they reported the truth about a noted criminal. This, in the view of the judge, prejudiced the jurors against that criminal, one Harold James Meriwether, armed robber, prison escapee and for some time Georgia's "most wanted" felon. The judge held that since Meriwether's past was not part of the record in the trial, the newspapers prejudiced the case against him by publishing the facts concerning his past life.

Would he also have handed down this decision if Meriwether had been known for his virtues instead of his crimes, and if the two newspapers had published this fact? Would he have interpreted such an account as an effort to impede the court by an appeal for mercy, rather than justice? Does he hold the rights of the proven criminal paramount over the public's right to know?

Judge Pye found that the publication of stories regarding Meriwether were "calculated, designed, deliberate and repeated." Of course they were, for no self-respecting newspaper would subject its obligations to its readers to the court's whims.

The court found that six of the 12 jurors had read the accounts regarding Meriwether's criminal career. This was enough, in the court's estimation, to cause the judge to declare a mistrial.

Judge Pye said: This corporation takes the position that all that which it here did was its absolute right and privilege to do. It has no such right, and it must be taught to the contrary. The duty of this court is to administer such instruction.

Someone in this case certainly should be taught about "rights and privileges" and it could be that Judge Pye is in for a surprise.

If his decision should stand, would the Post-Crescent or any other paper have the "right and privilege" or even the simple duty to report that:

The murderer of a little Milwaukee boy was in a mental institution before he committed the murder?

Al Capone was the head of gangsters responsible for many murders, when he went on trial for income tax evasion?

Starkweather murdered 10 other persons, although convicted of only one murder?

And so on . . . Nor did Judge Pye's concern for the rights of a criminal over the right of the public to know about his crimes help Meriwether. At his second trial the jury found Meriwether guilty, and he was sentenced to life plus 20 years. Did those 12 jurors say specifically that they had not read about Meriwether's past, and did the presiding judge at that trial believe them? Was he himself influenced by Meriwether's previous crimes, about which possibly he had read in the Constitution and the Journal? Was he not then in contempt of himself, the court?

When the two newspapers announced intention to appeal, why did Judge Pye specify bail of $40,000? Did he think they would run away from a fundamental principle — with all the odds in their favor in any unbiased court? And if the unthinkable happened and the upper courts, including the Supreme Court of the United States, upheld Judge Pye, would he imagine there would not be a further appeal to the American public and to every member of Congress?

Housing for the Married Student

As more and more young people are married and more and more head for college with wedding rings, the matter of housing poses a problem. Gov. Nelson has requested the Coordinating Committee on Higher Education to study the matter. Should the state make available special housing units for married students, and how much farther should the services of the state go? What about the education of the married students' children, for instance?

The university recently has completed the Eagle Heights project at Madison, in which married students and their families are living. However, the great majority of these students — perhaps all of them — are working on the graduate level and also are teaching at the university. Consequently they can afford to pay the approximately $80 per month rental which is necessary to make the project self-liquidating.

Probably this type of project is impossible at the state colleges where the students are working for bachelors' degrees. Yet about one-third of the seniors at many of the colleges are married. Is it the function of the state to provide housing for them?

Certainly this deserves study, yet it would appear that the state could do much better to concern itself only with the single student's housing needs. Units for three single students can be built for the cost of a unit for one married student (two if the spouse also attends college). With the expected booming enrollments it seems more than foolish to make a bid for another group of students when college authorities already are fretting about how to take care of those now signing up. Undoubtedly many of the married students now attending state colleges are local and live with the parents of one. There is the further practical aspect that dormitory space for single students will release private quarters for married students.

The matter of married college students is a fact which won't just go away if ignored, no matter how dim a view more conservative elders take of such a practice. But the state does not need to encourage the trend. Private colleges where marriages during the school year are banned on the threat of expulsion do not lack for students.

The young married person who wishes to pursue his education further should be applauded. But the problem of taking care of his wife and children is still a personal matter and not the direct concern of the taxpayer.

The Tax Policy Group

The stature of most of the 19 men appointed by Gov. Nelson to a committee to study tax policies after a report is made by another committee reveals that he is very serious about the problems ahead. Quite obviously he wishes to avoid a mess such as has developed in Michigan resulting in great measure from the stubborn split between the two parties and is ending in near catastrophe for that state.

Only so much can be decided in committee, of course; eventually the governor will have to take a stand on a means to raise more money in the state as well as how to cut expenses. And the new committee will be somewhat influenced by the directions indicated by the tax study commission whose members may not be so varied in opinion.

Nevertheless and with clear realization of the handicaps, the new committee choices were sound. The financial dilemma of the state should be the concern of every citizen and it certainly is of every taxpayer.

Summer vacation to thousands of Fox Cities area youngsters means a glorious 3-month respite from school. For motorists, however, it should be a time to exercise extra caution.

Safety precautions, of course, should be impressed on the young vacationers, but final responsibility rests with the motorist, says Capt. Ronald Decker of the Outagamie county traffic patrol. Motorists should think for both themselves and the youngsters — who probably have their minds on getting to the baseball diamond or swimming pool as quickly as possible, not on traffic hazards.

There have been several accidents in the Fox Cities area already this summer — including one fatality — where youngsters, afoot or on bicycles, have been struck by autos. Motorists should make every effort to keep the total from rising.

Here are a few safety rules for drivers to keep in mind:

Slow down when approaching or passing bicyclists. They're apt to turn into the path of an oncoming auto without warning.

Ease up on the gas pedal when driving past parked cars. There's little time to brake to a quick stop when a youngster darts out from behind a parked car.

Slow up near playgrounds. Children often chase balls into the street without heeding traffic.

In short, slow up. Be careful. Give the youngsters benefit of the doubt. A life is worth the extra caution.

Higher Tariffs are No Solution To Foreign Competition Problem

From the Baltimore Sun

When Prof. Slichter, of Harvard, was before the joint economic committee a few weeks ago he was under-estimated about inflation. He thought we might get a steady price rise of around 2 per cent a year, but refused to worry. His position seemed approximately to be that since some degree of inflation was inevitable, we'd better relax and enjoy it.

The full text of Prof. Slichter's remarks disclosed one or two qualifying points. Thus he felt that management, if properly stimulated, could do a better job of holding down wages and prices. For instance, "foreign competition would be of invaluable aid in checking the tendency of wages to outrun labor productivity and in retarding the rise in prices . . .

Now Roger M. Blough, of the United States Steel corporation, seems to be taking a leaf right out of Prof. Slichter's book. In his remarks at the National Press club he gave rising imports of steel as a major reason why his corporation was against further boosts in steel wages. And he cited a recent study of comparable German and American steel plants which showed the American pay roll costs about 2.5 times heavier than the German.

As it happens we have had some other recent testimony from a major American industrial figure about German costs. Walter Reuther is an expert on American wages. His auto workers union has pioneered some of the most dramatic wage boosts in our industrial history. But Reuther has noticed a steady increase in foreign motor cars on American highways. And so on his recent trip abroad he looked into German wage costs.

He indicated what he found in his first statement on arriving home. This was a proposal that our government impose a payment on imported German cars which would narrow the gap between the Reuther wage rates and those paid by the German auto manufacturers. Reuther didn't call this a tariff, but a tariff it would be.

In other words, American economists, industrialists and labor leaders now sense a new need to compete with foreigners on wages as on other things. Not merely the American position in world markets is involved, but the very standing of our own producers in our own domestic markets. And there will be a general opinion that new tariffs aren't the answer.

Former Manawa Native Is La Crosse College Head

From The Minneapolis Tribune

Rexford S. Mitchell, the tall, white-haired, suave president of Wisconsin State college at La Crosse since 1939, has spent practically all of his adult life on college campuses, but many of his fellow townsmen are convinced he might also have carved a brilliant career for himself in the field of business as promoter or salesman.

He gave evidence of this a few years ago when through a masterful presentation he overcame strong opposition and persuaded La Crosse's 21-member common council to go along on a proposal to permit the state to acquire for college expansion the old Interstate fairgrounds adjoining the campus. The added acres have already provided space for one men's dormitory and for a college union now under construction. Other buildings to be erected there include a second men's dormitory and a fieldhouse.

Mitchell, 63, a native of Manawa, Wis., served with the American expeditionary forces in World War I, received his B. A. degree from Lawrence college in 1920, then became a teacher of speech and social studies at River Falls State college. In 1928 he was back at Lawrence as professor of speech, later as assistant to the president and associate dean.

Before succeeding the late George Snodgrass as president at La Crosse, Mitchell earned a master's degree at the University of Chicago and a doctorate at the University of Wisconsin.

Active in civic affairs, he is a member of the American Legion and Rotary. He has been president of both the Family Service association and the La Crosse Day Nursery, and recently headed a Community Chest fund drive.

Golf and bridge are his favorite pastimes. At faculty parties in members' homes, no one takes more delight in the parlor games than Mitchell.

His wife, the former Muriel Larson, was a college sweetheart. The Mitchells have two daughters: one, a primary teacher in La Crosse, is married to a high school teacher; the other lives in Cincinnati, Ohio, and is the wife of a former University of Minnesota football player, Bill Carroll.

Looking Backward

School Problem Acute in 1880

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of June 19, 1880.

What shall be done to relieve the pressure upon the public schools in the second ward?

The sixth ward can barely accommodate for another year the children of the grades that attend it. The Germania building, second ward, can accommodate no more. In Hercules school, one department will have 19 more scholars than it will have room for; another 10 more; another 18 more; 127 are entitled to seats in one department of the High school — enough for three teachers!

It seems imperatively necessary to establish two additional departments, but there is no room for them. With the growth of the second school district, it is plainly evident that a new school house must be built, and that by the time that it is finished it will become necessary to double the size of Amicus (sixth ward) school building, already full.

The figures given show the situation at the close of the school term last week.

August Boelter was elected delegate to the North Wisconsin synod meeting which was to be held the latter part of June at Mt.

Time Is Running Out.
On Withholding Tax

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Madison — Notes from a statehouse diary:

Time may interfere with the installation of an income tax withholding system in the state, even if the legislature approves the idea in the end.

There is a mountain of new forms and instructions to be printed by the state department of taxation, if the system becomes effective, and state operations tend to require a good deal of time. It is doubtful that withholding can be put into operation for the last quarter of this year unless the legislature acts during the next two weeks. To get out revised individual tax blanks by next Jan. 1, as usual, the department figures it must have five months.

Ora R. Rice, retired dentist and 12-term assemblyman from Walworth county, has definitely decided to retire at the end of his present hitch, he is telling legislative colleagues. This is the first time that the one-time assembly speaker has served in a house controlled by Democrats, and the faithful spokesman of solidly Republican Walworth county doesn't hide his distaste for the experience.

PENSION HOPES DIM

The hopes of some of the judges of the state for passage of the extraordinarily generous pension plan introduced into the legislature months ago have dimmed. There is no sign that the law-makers are disposed to enact the daring proposal.

Mystery of the legislative year is the whereabouts of E. E. Hoebel, the manager of the Wisconsin Road Builders association and for many years the aggressive and skilled lobbyist for the highway construction industry. Hoebel declined to register as a lobbyist this year and has not been seen in the capitol precincts. Evidently there is nothing that the road contractors are worrying about in this legislature.

Freshman legislators, suffering the intense discomfort of summer weather in the stone capitol for the first time, talk longingly about air conditioning the huge building. But every time the question has been studied with any seriousness, officials have thrown up their hands in despair because of the politically unmanageable costs that would be involved.

Mrs. Helen Laird of Marshfield, only woman member of the University of Wisconsin board of regents and a prominent Republican, expects to be replaced by Gov. Nelson when her term expires soon.

The state senate committee on labor and management is taking its own leisurely time in examining the qualifications of Charles Manson of Wausau. Nelson's choice for insurance commissioner. But he will be confirmed, according to all the signs, when the senate decides that it is ready to act.

ROGAN TO MOVE

The retiring commissioner, Paul J. Rogan of Ladysmith, will move to Milwaukee to take a job in private business, expects to remain active in Republican party politics.

The talk about Rogan for governor next year is not seriously credited by party commanders, who regard it and probably with accuracy, as a buildup for a possible candidacy in another future year.

The boomlet on behalf of Rep. Henry Reuss for U. S. senator in 1962 was arranged independently by Robert Moses of the Farmers Union, by long odds the state's most prolific dispatcher of publicity releases about himself. But Reuss is actively planning such a candidacy and Moses was simply getting on the bandwagon early.

Phil Kuehn, the former GOP state chairman, recently told Sen. Proxmire that he might oppose him when the junior senator's term expires in 1964. Nor was he joking, entirely. The energetic and handsome Kuehn hopes for a political career, although he doesn't have a timetable figured yet.

Silver Dollars are Popular Only At Race Tracks

From the Albuquerque (N.M.) Journal

The U. S. Treasury is lamenting because silver dollars are not in sufficient demand. It has about 210 million that it would like to put out in circulation. They are popular at horse race tracks, but not much elsewhere.

Well, if New Mexico keeps on licensing race tracks, and other western states do likewise the silver dollar will be more in demand. Oklahoma, for instance, is talking of legalizing racing, hoping to draw some business from Texas where racing has been prohibited for years.

It's far from unhealthy to revive interest in the dollar through gambling at the race tracks. It could well be put to better use.

was elected commissioner of the Chilton Girl Scout board.

Three Appleton men were named to posts when the National Association of Power Engineers, chapter 12, met. They were Anton Harris, vice president, Adolph Runge, trustee for three years, and Carl Keating, trustee for a year.

Miss Cordell Zuelke and Mrs. Ben Ragus were appointed co-chairmen of the Alpha Chi Omega state day, which was to be held in Appleton, next May.

Dr. R. P. Jorgensen, Neenah dentist, was elected president of the Fox Valley Dental society at the close of the 2-day convention in Oshkosh.

U. S. Must be Tough In Berlin Demands

Allies Don't Believe Eisenhower's

Declaration That He Won't Give an Inch

BY JOSEPH ALSOP
Washington—The scene was a neutral one, the embassy of a country with exceptional experience of the American policy, but about it, in one of the ways, in a president meant what he said, the behind the ambassador blanching with Iron Curtain alarm, and burst out: "But if your president really means what he says, in Kremlin mak-God's name why does he not the daily act as though he meant it? political in the Kremlin, they judge weather. The by acts, not words. They may 'one of conversation was the misunderstanding. They may too far. And then there will The sardonic ambassador be a real danger of war that had asked, with casualness, can destroy us all' "What American intentions. What was implied by the really were. He was reminded ambassador's sharp reaction of the president's declaration to a seeming statement of the obvious was a turn confirmed by many other European observations. From Poland's Foreign Minister Rapacki and Hungary's communist boss, Janos Kadar, on down, the Hungarian and Polish leaders and officials I was permitted to see made it plain that they did not believe for one instant that President Eisenhower was in earnest about "not giving an inch" at Berlin. All these indicators seem to be confirmed by Nikita Khrushchev's disturbing recent speech in Riga. Speaking specifically of Sec. of State Christian A. Herter's refusal to give away the West-ern position at Berlin on Andrei Gromyko's word of command, Khrushchev said angrily:

"Even if the policy of positions of strength is irrevocably suffering defeat after defeat, the Western powers continue to stick to this policy. They wish to shun decisions on urgent questions aimed at relaxing international tensions and strengthening peace. But however these gentlemen may try, they are not able to blow a brave spirit into this bankrupt policy of positions of strength."

Say Ike Is Faking
That was simply another way of saying that President Eisenhower was faking about "not giving an inch"—which of course means that the president will risk war rather than surrender Berlin's freedom. It is fairly obvious that Khrushchev thinks the president is faking for two reasons. The first and major reason is the unfavorable change in the world balance of military power which has been flaccid and his administration. The second and more immediate reason is the president's total failure, to date, to take any of the precautionary measures, either military or political, which the Berlin crisis demands.

All this does not mean that the Berlin crisis itself, or even the meeting at Geneva, will necessarily end in disaster. By seeming not to be encouraging a mood of uncorseted complacency in the United States, by taking no military precautions of any kind, by going on with business-as-usual and budget-as-usual, the American government is certainly multiplying the risks very greatly.

Yet this reporter still has a feeling in his elbow, that

To Your Good Health

Four of Every Five Diabetics Have Been Too Fat Too Long

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.
In the first month, I went for a blood sugar test and it was normal again. Would you call me a diabetic?—Mrs. J. D.

Important Diseases
Here's the way I'll answer this letter. First, I'm glad that people are becoming more aware of diabetes, because there are a couple of million Americans who have to contend with it. That gives you an idea of the importance of this disease.

Second, what about a case of this type? Should Mrs. J. D. be called a diabetic? Well, as I've pointed out before, diabetes is a "sneaky disease." It isn't like smallpox—in which either you have it, and things are desperate,

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am 38 years old. Seventeen months ago they discovered I had a blood sugar level of 150. After a month of serious dieting, without pills or insulin, I brought it down to 110, which they say is normal. The sugar doesn't show in my urine. Now, after 16 months without watching my diet as I did the Western allies will somehow get around the immediate Berlin corner. At the moment, the feeling is not based on much more than the old rule, "God takes care of drunkards, children, and the United States." Nonetheless, one can still hope that the fact that the president really does mean what he says about Berlin will dawn on the Soviets before it is too late. May-be they have been changing their minds over the week-ends at Geneva. If they begin to take the President seriously, one can also hope an accommodation will be found this time.

That makes the question of the next time, and the time after that, however. The balance of power is still shifting in the Kremlin's favor. It will continue to do so until some time have passed and the missile gap is closed. If we go on through all this period, the old rule about drunkards, children, and the United States will hardly hold good or you don't. Diabetes edges up on us. (Except when it strikes a child; then it is quickly perilous, and there is not a moment to waste in controlling it.)

In adults, diabetes comes on gradually, for the most part. Sometimes we find a full-blown case. Sometimes we find a borderline case, and we can't be sure, overnight, whether it is diabetes or whether other factors are causing suspicious symptoms. One thing we do know: four out of five diabetics have been too fat too long. Mrs. J. D. varies, depending on the time of day, the activity, the time she eats, and whether she gives me a clue.

Weight Loss Helps
Many a moderate case, clearly, Mrs. J. D. isn't a severe diabetic, if she is one. But she's had a warning from nature. It's time for her to have a more exact test—and whether the answer is yes or no, it's time for her to cling halts the presence of sugar in the urine.

In brief, for some mild and early cases, proper diet is sufficient to control them. Most of us, however, need a full reduction and proper diet for any mild case of diabetes. But what about Mrs. J. D.'s case? I can't answer, but she probably will get the answer if her doctor orders a "sugar tolerance test." The blood sugar level gives me no information about day, the activity, the time she eats, and whether she gives me a clue.

A sugar tolerance test, on the other hand, will give a more precise answer. Clearly, Mrs. J. D. isn't a severe diabetic, if she is one. But she's had a warning from nature. It's time for her to have a more exact test—and whether the answer is yes or no, it's time for her to cling watch her weight and take some precautions. Even if we can't prevent diabetes, we can extend our lives for years if only we will accept a hint from nature and be watchful and sensible.

Taking Thyroid Pills
"Dear Dr. Molner: When is the correct time to take thyroid pills—before, after or between meals? I have heard many different answers.—K. M."

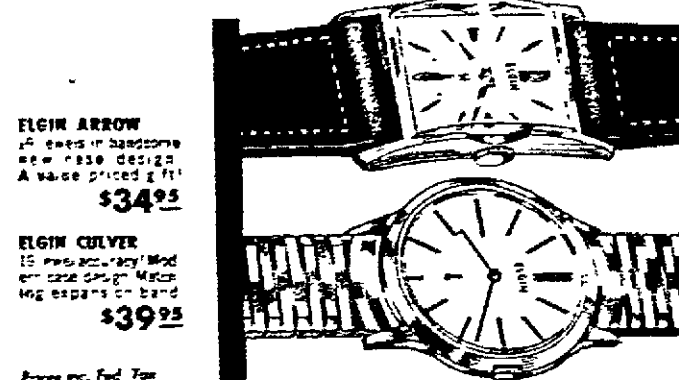

It makes "precious little difference" when they are taken in relation to meals. Leg cramps and foot pains? Both can be stopped! Kennedy's Absence at McCarthy Censure Vote May Hurt Him Now

John Kennedy of Massachusetts, documenting them with crusades prospective bidder a record of Kennedy votes for Wisconsin delegates at the 1960 Democratic presidential convention. Nestingen explains Kennedy's absence on the McCarthy censure roll call thusly "When the censure first came to the floor in the summer of 1954 Kennedy was prepared to vote for it and had a speech ready outlining his reasons. When it was referred to a special committee he hoped that the report would be made and final action taken before his scheduled back operation." Home Ec Teacher Came on Leave Of Absence, Stayed 37 Years

BY JACK HOLZHUETER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A high school teacher, who came to Appleton on a leave of absence 33 years ago against her will, is retiring from the school system this year with no regrets for having overstayed her furlough by some 37 years.

She is Miss Catherine Spence, of 331 E. Harris street, a woman whose once-black hair is now nearly white, but whose ideas about the home as the basis of American culture are still fresh in the minds of nearly 3,500 men and women who have passed through her home economics classrooms.

Miss Spence originally wanted to be a doctor. She pursued a teaching career only to earn enough money to re-enter medical school, after illness in her family forced her to quit.

Preferred Math
But, as things go, she never attained her goal. Instead, she started teaching home economics in her home town of Duluth. The subject matter was not recommended by her professors.

"They told me I should go in for mathematics. And maybe I should have. You know math and economics are very much related."

In Duluth, she supervised construction of the first unit, which was used anywhere in the United States. "They were just beautiful. I just didn't like those old hollow squares," she said.

Then Lee C. Rasey, Appleton High school principal, visited Duluth. He saw Miss Spence's work and her kitchen and offered her a job.

"Oh," Miss Spence said, shaking her head, "I didn't want to come. I was dragged here. It was such a little city. Appleton." But her Duluth employers offered her a leave of absence for one year, and she came.

What she found would have been a challenge to any home economist. "It was terrible." From the third floor of a Duluth school, Miss Spence was forced to move into the basement of old Ryan High school, with leaky walls, dirt floors, covered with a thin layer of boards, and highly inadequate equipment.

The first impression was so bad that Miss Spence anticipated spending her one year here and then summarily returning to Duluth. But the atmosphere grew on her; her equipment. She taught one of students "were wonderful"; the first boys' foods class and the principal was "the best."

Five Years Leave
At the end of a year, the Duluth superintendent offered her another year's leave and Miss Spence accepted. When he had finally extended her three more leaves, Miss Spence told him to stop. She had decided after five years to stay in Appleton.

"Oh," Miss Spence said, shaking her head, "I didn't want to come. I was dragged here. It was such a little city. Appleton." But her Duluth employers offered her a leave of absence for one year, and she came.

Poker Itself Goes Wild in Philippines

BY JIM BECKER

Manila — The deuces aren't wild in Philippine poker, but almost everything else is.

In fact, there are no deuces, or threes, or fours.

In real slambang Philippine poker games—which means nearly all of them—the players take those lowly cards out of the deck, leaving the fives as the lowest cards that can be dealt. The players are bored by the little cards.

With the deck thus stripped for action, they can proceed with some wild games that make a lover of 5-card stud and 5-card draw squirm.

In most local games, each player is dealt five cards down. As many as seven wild cards are pitched face up in the middle of the table. The low card in each player's hand is often called wild, too, and can be used to match any other card.

Each variation has its own complicated rules, but in all of them a hand with fewer than five of a kind isn't worth the ante. In some games, the player makes up his eventual hand with two cards from the five he was dealt, two from the wild ones that are face up (which two depending on his hand holding) and one card that he is forced to use.

Most American poker players shudder at the sight of one of these games. But Filipinos are equally amazed at the relatively tame games the foreigners play.

When you're used to looking at five aces, two pairs seem pretty puny.

although she, along with many famous educators, believes students in the last few years have been asking teachers "to make it easy for me."

Secondly, she wants to aid students in developing wholesome personalities. "I was after their objectives — to teach them the finer things of life, instead of this frivolous too much."

"It's this finer development of self that bothers me today. Everyone measures things in terms of dollars and cents. That's just terrible. It should not be that way," she said sadly shaking her head.

Even in her retirement, Miss Spence plans to carry out her dedication to youth. There are plenty of school-minded organizations to join. I'll have to be careful not to get in too deeply."

But even more important to Miss Spence, right now, seems to be her students' dedication to her.

A student burst into the empty room. "Is there anything I can do to help you?" she asked, blushing, somewhat ill at ease for forcing herself on her teacher the first day of vacation and so-called retirement.

"Of course, my dear," Miss Spence said reassuringly. "I'm sure we can find something for you to do." And she smiled happily, looking around a room so very different from the basement of Ryan High school.

Even her screwdriver, which she has used for nearly all of the 38 years in Appleton High school, is being left behind. The custodian at Ryan made it for her years ago, and although it brings back many memories, the screwdriver belongs to the high school and that's where it will stay.

Loves Children
What has kept Miss Spence busy teaching home economics nearly four decades? First, she loves children. She loves to see them develop, an High school.

lot, enabled the badly damaged plane to be brought safely into Miho Air Force base on Honshu," the Pentagon announcement said.

Attack Last Year

Pentagon records indicate the most recent previous communist air attack on a U. S. plane in the Far East took place Nov. 17, 1958. In that incident red fighters attacked an air force RB47 over the sea of Japan. The American plane was not hit.

Another attack, June 12, 1957, involved a naval plane on a routine training flight over Formosa strait off the Chinese coast. That American plane suffered minor damage from gunfire but there were no casualties.

Similar incidents have been recurring in the Far East area for years.

In 1951, a navy patrol bomber disappeared on a weather reconnaissance flight over international waters off Spieria after Russian planes fired on it. Ten crew members were missing in that attack.

Earlier Incidents

In 1954, two navy planes from a carrier, which were searching for survivors of a British airliner which had been shot down, were fired on by two Chinese fighter planes. The American navy planes returned the fire and shot both red planes down. There were no American casualties.

Another navy patrol bomber was shot down over international waters off the Siberian coast in 1954. This attack and the plane crash landed by two Russian jets resulted in the death of one man.

In 1955 a carrier-based navy plane was shot down by communist antiaircraft fire while providing aerial protection during evacuation of Chinese nationalists from the offshore Tachen islands. A few days later a patrol plane had been fired on and suffered minor damage but no casualties.

Later that year, a navy patrol bomber was attacked by two Russian MIGs over international waters in the vicinity of the Bering sea. One engine of the patrol plane was set afire and the plane crash landed on the island. Three crew members were injured.

12-Year-Old Now Facing 3 Charges

Spieria, Tenn. — A 12-year-old boy who told police he wanted to run away from home because he was mad at his father faces charges of kidnaping, assault with intent to kill and auto theft today.

Mrs. Fred Alcorn, 26, told Sheriff W. M. Hobbs that young Billy Ross, a neighbor, pointed a .22 rifle at her as she hung up her washing Monday. He tied her hands behind her, she said, forced her to lie on the floorboard of her car and started to drive away. She said he tied her daughter, Debbie, 4, to a dresser drawer in the house.

Mrs. Alcorn said she worked free, ran into the house and telephoned police as the boy was trying to start the automobile's engine a second time.

Neither Hurt

Neither the woman nor the little girl was hurt. Ross was found four hours later when he appeared at the home of a farmer, Cecil Eller of Blue Springs community about three miles from here. The car had run into a ditch on a rural road near the farm. The boy was not injured.

Sheriff Hobbs quoted the 135-pound sixth-grader as saying he planned to steal a car and run away because his father, Virgil Ross, "was always complaining at me."

The sheriff quoted the boy as saying he intended only to take Mrs. Alcorn away from quick access to a telephone. Then put her out and drive by back roads to Knoxville, about 100 miles to the east.

Two Russian MIGs over international waters in the vicinity of St. Lawrence island in the Bering sea. One engine of the patrol plane was set afire and the plane crash landed on the island. Three crew members were injured.

In August 1956 a P4M was shot down off the coast of communist China. The 16 men aboard were missing.

The P4M normally carries a crew of nine, but the first possible under Wisconsin law, Gunaca displayed little emotion as Judge Rinehard announced the sentence but his father, Martin, of Detroit, wept openly.

This model of the navy patrol craft has two piston motors and two jet engines.

Brief Milk Strike Ends

Agreement Reached In Chicago After All-Night Session

Chicago — A brief strike against Chicago dairy firms, which had threatened the metropolitan area with a milk shortage, was settled today after an all-night bargaining session.

Some 2,630 members of Local 754 of the Dairy Employees union had demanded wage increases of $10 a week, plus fringe benefits, when they struck Monday morning. Members of Local 753, Chicago Milk Wagon Drivers union, refused to cross picket lines set up by the inside-the-plant workers.

Both locals are affiliates of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Otto Debs, recording secretary of Local 754, said the contract agreement reached early today provides wage increases of $5 a week for the first year and $4 a week for the second year. Fringe benefits were not reported.

Details of the new contract with 5,000 truck drivers were not immediately disclosed.

Pay for inside employees under the old contract averaged $110 a week. They handle about 90 per cent of the milk supply for the city and suburbs.

Bringing Up Baby.

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DANI GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Words to the wise from a mother who profited by her own "trial and error" system. "It took me a long time to realize that my baby ate with more relish when I stopped coaxing and clock-watching and started feeding when she indicated she was really hungry." Real hunger, whatever the time, begets a better appetite.

No need to coax or plead when you offer baby the very newest of all Gerber goodies... Gerber Cottage Cheese with Pineapple. For never was there a more delectable way to give baby a heaping helping of proteins, plus B vitamins and calcium. Yes, for the first time, your baby can enjoy a mild, digestible cheese dish that's flavored with mellow fruit. In two of the nicest textures: Strained or Junior. P.S. No need to refrigerate 'til after opening.

Fashion notes for summer small-fry comfort. On most warm days your darling will be more comfortable if he sports a diaper only. On real sizzlers he'll be more comfortable with a shirt to soak up excess perspiration.

Carriage cue. If baby snoozes outdoors these fine June days, be sure to park the carriage in a shady spot. Sun beating down on the carriage top can turn baby's outdoor crib into a veritable oven.

Dinner is served to the delight of every darling sprite who's ever tasted Gerber Strained or Junior Dinners. And small wonder! For these casserole dishes are extra flavor-y because they combine vegetables, meat and cereal. Like all Gerber Baby Foods, the Dinners are heat processed in the absence of air to preserve the utmost in precious food values.

Has baby tried the newest Gerber Strained Dinner—Beef & Egg Noodles with Vegetables? Mmm, more please. Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

Parisian Designer Annoyed

American Men Called Lazy And Sloppy by Schiaparelli

BY DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Elsa Schiaparelli says American men are lazy and sloppy.

This also is true, in a lesser degree, of all men, even Europeans, says the imperious Schiaparelli, whose ideas on dress and manners have left an imprint on a generation of international society. The Paris designer is annoyed because men won't take the trouble to dress up any more. Says she: "I get more disgusted with men all the time — particularly traveling Americans. They start out on a trip to Europe and never bother to pack a dinner jacket. This is not only stupid — it's bad manners."

Come As You Are

"Dozens of times recently I have invited a man to a dinner party, mentioning that he should wear a black tie, only to be told gaily that he didn't bring one along. Invariably he adds — 'I'll just have to come as I am.'"

"Well, I put up with this for a while, but lately I've decided to do something about it. And when the last prospective guest said he didn't bring his dinner clothes, I replied, 'Oh, I'm so sorry. Next time please bring them, and I'll ask you to dinner then. This time I'll just have to give you a rain check.'"

"After all, you have to draw the line somewhere. If you don't, men will be arriving at dinner parties in bathing trunks."

Animal Magnetism

Schiaparelli takes a dim view of all phases of the current.

rent American craze for casual living. Says she: "Give a man a chance and he'll be so casual that he won't bathe, shave or comb his hair. He'll just depend on his animal magnetism to get him by."

Schiaparelli aired her views during one of her frequent trips to New York to check on her many American enterprises. At present she is designing practically everything you can mention, including furs, jewelry, eye glasses,

Class of '49 Has Reunion

Weyauwega — Twenty-seven of 37 members attended the first reunion of the Weyauwega High school class of 1949 Saturday at NaGreen's hotel, Weyauwega.

The get-together was arranged by Bryan Purchatzke and his wife, the former Arlyss Borchardt, both members of the class. John Bruha, Gloria Reek Prillwitz and Duane Koehler.

Recognition was given Nancy Steinberg Moak, married the most years; Julaine Domke, traveling the greatest distance; Evaline Bartel Lippert, most children, and Gloria Reek Prillwitz, most recent bride.

It was decided to hold another reunion in 1964 with arrangements to be made by Richard Bruha, Ralph Marten, Carl Fischer, Joraine Winters Bucholtz and Nancy Moak. Ann Sherburne was named corresponding secretary.

children's clothes, handbags, men's shirts and ties, gloves, scarfs and drapery fabrics, to say nothing of her famous perfumes.

No Elegance Seen "People dress pretty badly now every place — in Paris as well as New York. There doesn't seem to be any elegance any more, and nothing is important enough to be grand occasion, it has become fashionable to be bored and careless."

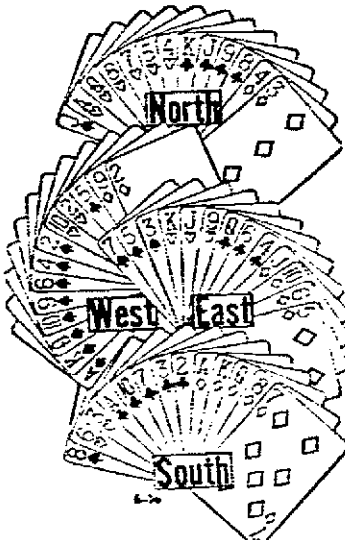

"I feel life should have its great and brilliant moments, when men and women dress in the grand manner, and festivity is set in a formal frame. There are times to be casual and times to be correct. It's all right to wear a sweater and slacks on a picnic but they don't belong in the theater or the drawing room."

Tomorrow's Bridge — Today This Negative Double Is Bidding Innovation

BY WILLIAM SEAMON
Both sides are vulnerable. South deals.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 D 4 S D'ble Pass
5 C Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: King of spades.

One of the newest innovations in bidding is the negative double. It would be well to give this double the name of its originator. Thus we bow low to Alvin Roth of Washington, D. C., one of the world's great bridge players.

This bid is certain to revolutionize bidding because it actually takes the problem out of problem hands. To summarize the negative double — it is a cooperative double, basically takeout, and it can occur at any bidding level. This double describes a hand with certain minimum values but not enough values to make a free bid. Naturally, as the bidding level goes higher, the values must increase for the negative double. While it is a cooperative double, the original bidder may pass for penalties if the opponents' are in his other suit or he may pass if the bidding level is high and he has nothing else to bid.

The above hand illustrates the negative double in action. By the way, how would any other bid allow North and South to play the hand in five clubs? This much is sure — if North bid five hearts, he was overboard then and there. If he doubled, not playing the negative double, South would have to pass and the penalty would have been one trick which is poor compensation for a vulnerable game.

On the play, West led the king of spades and then Burton Tellock, Eugene Tellock and Albert Tellock. Howard Palmbach won the special prize.

Next year's reunion will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Tellock with Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Tellock assisting. East played small but South

Mother Grieves About Son's Extra Job, 'Killing People'

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is a policeman. He doesn't make much money and we have a large family of youngsters who are always needing something. Recently he was offered an opportunity to add to his income. We discussed it and I said it was perfectly all right with me. His extra job is throwing the switch which ends the lives of criminals sentenced to death in the electric chair.

When my husband's mother found out what he was doing for extra money she made such a terrible fuss that it created bad feelings. Frankly, I never felt that my husband was murdering anyone. He only carries out the verdict. My mother-in-law says he's taking a human life every time he throws the switch and all the fancy language doesn't change this.

Now I don't know where I stand anymore. My mother-in-law is grieving so over her son "killing people" that it's actually making her ill. Is she right? Shall I tell him to give up this job for his mother's sake? Please advise me, Ann. I don't know what to do.—W. M.

Dear W. M.: If your husband needs a second job to earn extra money, there must be other things he can do. He should not insist on this particular job if it makes his mother sick. Regardless of whether or not he feels justified, urge him to quit out of respect for his mother.

DEAR ANN: I'm in a spot. A fellow I dated only a few times has flipped his lid over me. He's a perfectly fine guy, but I just don't care for him. It's hard to describe, but when I'm with him no bells ring, no angels sing — nothing. I decided after our last date I would be "busy" if he called again.

This morning, I received a dozen American Beauty roses from the creep. It made me angry. I resent his trying to overwhelm me. If I acknowledge the flowers, I'm afraid he'll consider it encouragement and then I'll never get rid of him. It seems to me that flowers are in the same category as a greeting card and therefore need no acknowledgment. Am I right?—Vexed.

Dear Vexed: You are wrong. Flowers are not "in the same category as a greeting card." Have you ever tried to buy a dozen roses for a quarter?

You don't have to date him again if you don't want to, but you owe him a thank you note. One thing has nothing to do with the other. Stop rationalizing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was fascinated by the letter from the woman who signed herself Inez. It seems she felt perfectly comfortable "borrowing" another woman's husband since she had none of her own. You gave her an unmerciful clobbering.

I'm sure you could not possibly condone this on moral grounds. (The clergymen would scream like Banshees!) but I think Inez has a point. It might wake up a few lethargic, self-satisfied, cowlike wives. Perhaps they'd appreciate their husbands more if they discovered someone else considered their taken-for-granted "cash registers" a bit attractive.

Too doggone many women in this world feel they can live without men, and they let their husbands know it. Maybe a little competition is exactly what the doctor ordered.—C. E. R.

P. S. I'm available. Thank you for offering yourself for this noble experiment. My original advice to Inez still stands.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.) (Copyright 1959)

Let New Ideas in Home Decoration Work for You

Today's homemaker lives in a world of exciting ideas.

From the printed page, the airwaves and every shop window comes a dazzling parade of new products and suggestions that are well calculated to make Mrs. Consumer dizzy with delight.

This, of course, is as it should be. It is part of the wonder and joy of living in twentieth century America.

Check Facts But being excited by new ideas in home decoration is one thing — making these ideas work for you is quite another. You will find, however, that it's worth all the time and effort you put into it.

The first thing to keep in mind is the necessity of finding out the facts for yourself. For instance, don't select materials for your new home or remodeling project on the basis of gossip or preconceived notions about cost. Check out actual costs for yourself. For example, you may be pleasantly surprised to discover that durable, high quality materials cost little more than substitute materials.

Maintenance Your fact-finding expedition should also cover the question of maintenance. For real satisfaction, a room must do more than just look lovely in the beginning. It must also be kept lovely with a minimum of time and effort on your part. This is another reason for concentrating your search on quality materials that are tested by time and made to last.

The best rule to follow is to continue looking for ideas — but remember to look behind them as well.

In Good Taste Should be Chaperoned At Ranch

BY EMILY POST
Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter, not quite 18, would like to go with several of her classmates to a dude ranch unchaperoned, for a weekend. My wife and I feel it is improper for girls of that age to go to places of that sort unchaperoned. What is your opinion?

Answer: Your daughter should not go unless there is someone in the management of the ranch who will chaperone her and her classmates.

Bridegroom at Shower
Dear Mrs. Post: My son is to be married soon and a shower is being given for his bride-to-be. I would like to know if my son should be present at the shower as the bride opens her gifts. The bride-to-be's mother says he should be there and I think not. Will you please tell us who is right?

Answer: Most usually showers are for girls only because very often the presents given are the kind of things that would be embarrassing to open in the presence of men. However, in some communities, men are invited as well as girls and if other men are invited to this particular shower, your son should of course be present, but not otherwise.

Uncertain Recognition
Dear Mrs. Post: Every once in a while when walking on the street an apparent stranger will smile, or bow, to me. I think it's a case of misrecognition. What is the polite thing to do in this situation? Do I ignore the greeting and walk on, or do I return the bow, or smile, even though I do not recognize the person?

Answer: If you are like many of us and not always sure whether or not we know a passing face, it is better to return a bow, or a smile, than to risk cutting someone we should have recognized.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet E-3, entitled, "The Clothes of the Bridal Party," send 10 cents in coin to Dept. E, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N.Y.

If unconvinced they have a sure faith in their own. "He's so stubborn. He won't give in even when he is proven wrong." Yes, he will. Our Children Liberty, Says Patri, Is Heady Stuff for Youth

BY ANGELO PATRI
We hear a great deal these days about teaching young people how to get along with other people. That is all to the good but, like many other good things it has its limitations and these should be pointed out to the listening young ones. Before going along with people, it is well to know in what direction they are going. It is possible, along with Thoreau, to march to another drum. To have a worth-while character, it must be based on high standards of thought and action. Our children must be shown the values of these, taught about them and given examples of them in the lives of the leaders they admire. They must be taught that their moral strength is what furnishes the power on which they will carry on all their days. When they hear some bright youngster scoff at the advice his father gives him about using bad language, smoking, drinking and keeping late hours it sounds interesting. It is so different from what they hear at home and school. The idea of liberty to do whatever the moment of fancy is tempting indeed. Liberty is heady stuff for youth. Are the listeners to go along or are they to turn away and stick to what their conscience says?

Hear Many Voices
There are many voices raised in an effort to influence youth these days. Some of them are loud and persuasive, contradictory or dramatic — as happens to be the speaker's way. Youth, the inexperienced, tends toward the new and the dramatic and to what puts their elders in the wrong. Youth is always rebellious. That spirit is what moves each generation forward so it is not to be forced to return a bow, or a smile, ever put in the wrong, either. "I knew all the time he was kidding me but it sounded good." To meet that we must prepare the young people to form their own standards, take pride in their own opinions and defend them. Of course this will bring on arguments—long and loud ones—but these are the best educative influence we can bring to bear.

When the young people are not only allowed to express their opinions as against those of their elders, but encouraged to do so, they learn to scan the opinions of others, to question them, learn from them and when convinced they are good, accept

In the background are Valley Council Boy Scout Order of the Arrow leaders who escort Charlie from the Menasha locks to Smith park.

A. W. Plummer Resigns From School Board

Will be Unable to Serve 3-Year Term To Which Elected

Neenah — Arthur W. Plummer today announced his resignation from the school board, effective with the new 3-year term he was to begin in July. He has accepted a position with the Hudson Pulp and Paper corporation of South Windham, Me.

In a letter to Paul Groth, president of the Neenah board of education he stated:

"In all fairness to the citizens of Neenah, I believe the write-in candidate receiving the greatest number of votes in the April 6 election should be appointed to take my place. I realize, of course, that it is a prerogative of the city council to make this appointment."

"Because of the lateness of his announcement that he had accepted a position that would take him from the city, several candidates announced on the date before the election that they were seeking the post. Edgar Schmiel had the highest number of votes of four write-in candidates."

"I hope that in the years to come the positive steps we took these last three years, and the progressive attitude developed toward improvement in the school system can be continued," Plummer wrote. "To do this I believe that, although the board

The Crowd at Smith Park, Menasha, was estimated at some 2,000 persons with another 1,000 at the Menasha locks and along the canal Monday night to greet Charlie House near the end of his 1,000-mile canoe trip from Montreal. William Herzger, at the microphone, directed the welcome ceremonies. On the program were, from the left on the platform, George Friedrich of Little Wolf Mining and Mineral, Inc.; Edward Corry; John Pawlowski, Jr.; Mrs. John Wilterding, Menasha Historical society president; Miss Ethel MacKinnon; Robert Loescher, and Mayor R. G. DuCharme, with Charlie giving the large crowd a wary look.

Set Visitation Days at Eight Neenah Parks

Projects for Week Include Glider, Saucer Contests

Neenah — Parent visitation days will highlight this week's activities on the eight Neenah playgrounds. Parents are invited to attend the playgrounds, meet the leaders and ask questions pertaining to the activities and facilities.

Contests include bubble gum, glider and flying saucer. The tournament to be held for junior Olympics is five pin bowling. The junior Olympic beanbag finals will be held at the Green Second Ward and Laidan playgrounds Tuesday afternoon.

Projects planned at Doty park include selection of slogan emblem and mascot Monday, selection of junior leaders, building gliders, planes and helicopters today, group games Wednesday, olympic elimination nature hunt and big boys baseball Thursday, and glider neocopters and airplane contests Friday. Seal the sticks contests are planned from 7 to 8 p. m. each evening.

Laudan Activities

Laudan park activities are scavenger hunt Monday, bubble gum contest today, bowling tournament Wednesday and glider and flying saucer contests Thursday.

The team captained by Mary Freund and which included Debbie LeGault, Karen Bernhagen, Elaine Cruser, Mary Tews, Julie Russell, Laurie Russell, Bev Bishop, Cynthia LaBelle and Connie Koerner won the scavenger hunt at Cook park last week.

Fifty-two children participated in the hunt at Hoover with Jim Vittelsteads and Rorry Lyons teams tying for first.

Record attendances and enrollments were reported in all activities. They included baseball, 650; archery, 100; advanced craft, 68; golf, 50; and puppetry, 30.

Menasha Board Hires Four New Teachers

Athletic Insurance Coverage to be Examined Further by Commissioner

Menasha — Four new teachers were hired and athletic coverage was discussed with the board of education Monday at the June board of education meeting.

The four new teachers and their probable assignments, are: Mrs. Francine Schmidt, first grade with one year of teaching experience at Shawano. She is a graduate of Alverno college Milwaukee. Miss Laura Hass, North Fond du Lac third grade a graduate of Wisconsin State college, Oshkosh. She will start at step 7 in the wage schedule.

Miss Ruth Stolper, Random Lake kindergarten, who has taught three years at West Bend after graduating from Wisconsin State college Oshkosh.

Miss Elizabeth Phillo, Wisconsin Rapids second grade, graduate of Central State college Stevens Point. She will start at step 8 on the salary scale.

One more teacher will round out the staff for the coming year, according to Supt. of Schools M. J. Gegan. Three were hired recently.

Com William Snyder referring to the two experienced teachers hired, said, "It looks as if we're in trouble over the budget since they are to start at steps 7 and 8. He contended the local school system should hire teachers with less experience so salaries can be held down."

Gegan reminded Snyder available teachers are somewhat scarce.

Mrs. Milton Gaertner board secretary said the local schools especially the primary grades need the stabilizing afforded by experienced teachers.

Snyder was asked to look into private insurance policies affording athletic event accident coverage similar to that of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association.

"Nuisance Claims"

Each high school pupil is assessed 75 cents a year with the school system paying the difference for athletic contestants. Last year's bill was $1,932 with $1,523 collected. Next year's estimated bill is $2,144 with anticipated receipts of $1,600.

should be a policy making body the individual members must maintain a strong interest and an almost avaricious curiosity about the detailed affairs of the school system.

"I believe this to be true regardless of how capable the administrative people in the system may be. The basis of my belief is the principle that the school system fundamentally belongs to the tax paying public and that the interest of the public can only be well served by inquisitive, analytical, demanding and constructive critical school board members."

The vacancy is filled by appointment of the mayor with the confirmation by the council.

Roosevelt School Flyer Sends Teacher on Globe-Trotting Job

BY NANCY HENNIG
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Neenah — A chance glance at a flyer on a Roosevelt school bulletin board placed a Neenah teacher in Newfoundland the past year. The same flyer has her glancing at travel folders of Spain for her next assignment.

During the winter of 1958, Miss Sara Geisthardt, 52½ Racine street, Menasha, and Miss Charlotte Forth, another Neenah teacher who is now in Japan, saw the flyers about overseas teaching jobs and there, Miss Geisthardt was approached through the Chicago civil service office. Miss Geisthardt was told her chances of getting to Europe were that I wore the parka the last night, but she had a choice of day of school, May 29," she said. "The school had another snow vacation after the last of May 11."

"I chose Newfoundland and snow storm May 11." Iceland never thinking I'd get one of them," she said smiling. "My first choice was Tripoli, second Turkey, and third Arabia. I can honestly say I don't think I was warm from the time I left the states to the time I returned. I was so glad to be warm again," Miss Geisthardt said.

The former Neenah school teacher had taught at Roosevelt school six years before she left last August for Peperrell Air Force base near St. John's, Newfoundland.

This fall she will be teaching at a Strategic Air Command, SAC, base near Seville, Spain.

Fur Parka

Like the other 30 teachers who taught at the base school maintained for the children of North America. Marconi sent his first wireless to England from there.

Officers Club Her brown eyes twinkled as she reflected on her experiences of the past year. "So special life centered around the Officers' club; (teachers were considered officers). Naturally we couldn't go swimming or golfing up there.

"They tried to do a great deal for the teachers. We had a big, wonderful party at least once a month. These parties were planned many months in advance by the officers' wives. Stateside entertainment was flown in once a month. The club was always decorated in the motif of the season."

"Newfoundland is fast becoming the playground of North America," the soft-spoken Miss Geisthardt explained. "Airports are now being built to bring the tourists in."

Telling about the nearby port, she said, "St. John's has the best harbor in the world for boats, so the natives say. All the foreign boats come in there. Fishing boats come into the port when the weather is bad.

"In September and October the Portuguese fleet came in. I didn't want to go down. The fish smell was too much for me in St. John's. The Portuguese fishermen entertained us royally with fine food and unusual Portuguese wines.

"The Newfoundlanders speak with an extreme English accent," she recalled. "We were allowed to drive in to St. John's and shop, but we had to show an identification card to get off and on the base."

"The poverty among the natives is extreme. There is no middle class; the people are either poor or have all the capital around. They haven't reached any real economic level yet. They've gone through so many stages in

Notes Trend to Young Marriages in United States

Washington — The United States is now rearing to the fore a new pattern of early marriage, one that is more common than the European. That is the conclusion of the Robert C. Cook, president of the National Bureau of Research, who took a thorough look at 1958 statistics and came up yesterday with these facts:

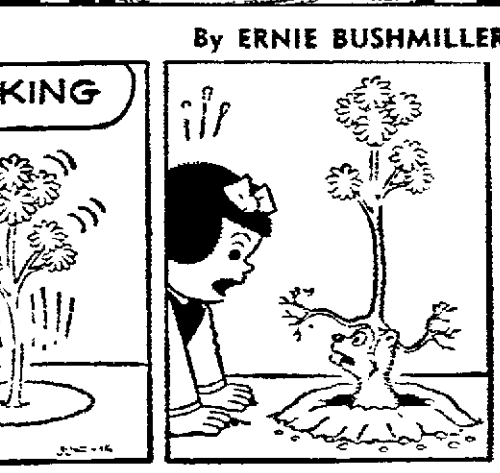

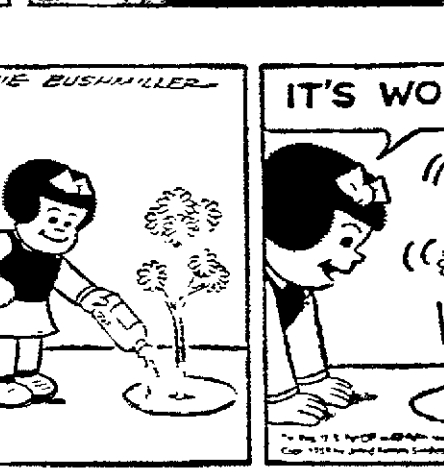

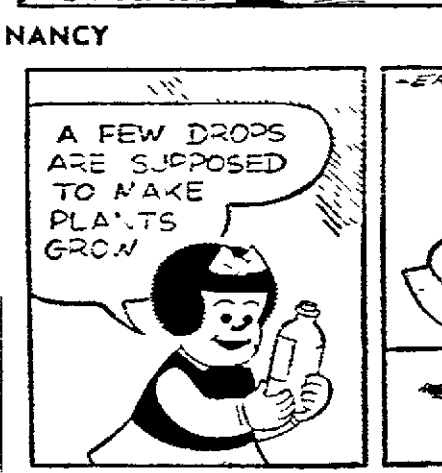

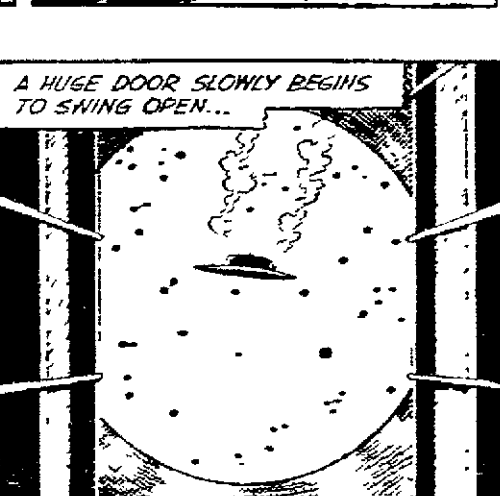

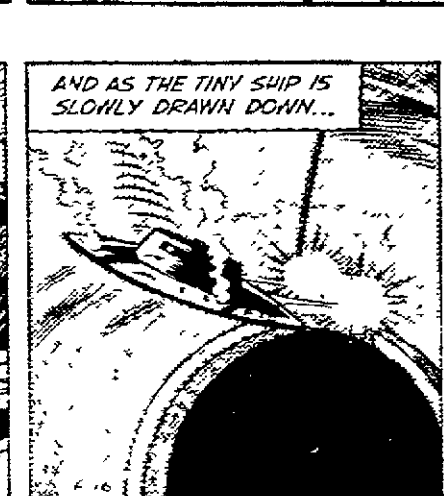

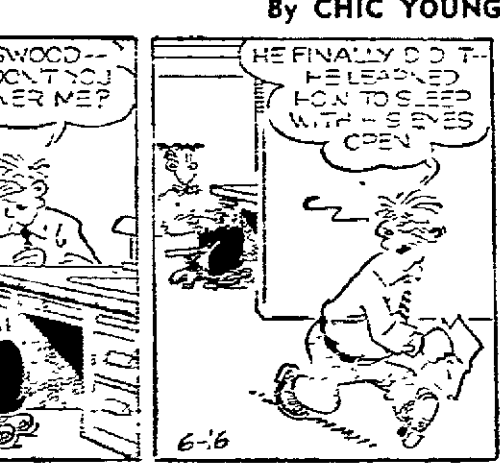

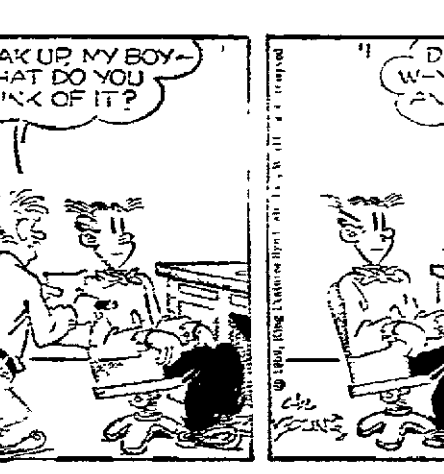

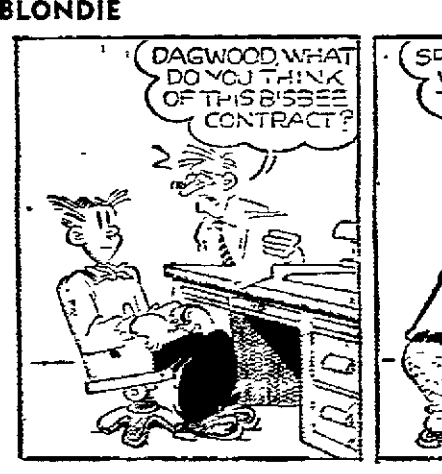

More than 45 per cent of the women marrying for the first time last year were under 25, as were about 15 per cent of the men.

In comparison, in 1890 the average marriage age was 26 for men and 22 for women. A generation ago, the married couple was a rarity, the married high school student unheard of.

"Is the day coming when you get married in high school?" asked Cook.

Put Your Important Papers In This Envelope Container

BY CAPPY DICK

Every boy has a number of important papers to carry in his pocket — membership cards, club rules, directions for making things, and so on. Such papers are easy to lose. One way to prevent their loss is to have a special container for them. A container that is flat so it easily can be carried in a coat pocket. Such a container may be made from two ordinary envelopes.

The envelopes must be of the same size. Cut the flap off one. Spread glue on the entire inside surface of the other flap. Glue the two flaps together as in Figure 1, with their open sides toward each other. When the glue has dried you will see that the envelopes can be folded to-table (see Figure 2 again), rather like the covers of a book.

Make a cover for the outside of the folder. Any kind of fold the envelopes together plain paper will do, but colored paper will do, except for the most attractive. Cut a orating it. This can be done piece exactly the size of the with crayons, but Figure 3 two envelopes when opened suggests using letters cut out and spread flat on the table of newspaper advertisements as in Figure 2. Spread paste to form the owner's name, over one side of the cover. Paste the cutouts on the cover, and, with the envelopes en, placed open-side-down on the

Menasha Girls To Vie for Alice Crown

Dairyland Princesses To be Named at State Contest at Janesville

Menasha — Rosemary Robertson and Mary Swieczkowski will compete against 18 other regional winners in Janesville Saturday for the four Alice in Dairyland princess crowns and the eventual right to represent the state as Alice in Dairyland.

The two Menasha girls won their chances at the Neenah regional contest last month.

The big moment will come during the farm-city banquet at the Parker Pen company's Arrow park cafeteria Saturday night. The festivities and judging, however, start when the girls register Thursday afternoon.

Miss Barbara Haslow of Chili, the 1958 Alice, will be the official of passing in the face of traffic.

Gietman was arrested May 16 on Highway 41 in the town of Menasha, a half mile south of the Outagamie county line where the car was parked.

in Janesville throughout the 3-day contest and will ride the parade route at 1 p.m. Saturday atop the Chamber of Commerce float. The 20 contestants will ride in separate convertibles.

Donald L. McDowell, director of the state department of agriculture will be the speaker at the dinner that will send four of the girls to the state fair to vie for the Alice crown Aug. 22.

mual reorganization, to elect officers.

The dental hygiene speech correction, pool and public health nurse reports for the year were accepted and filed.

Miss DeLores DeLanty, dental hygienist, reported 4,283 oral inspections the past year, with 2,018 notices of work needed sent out. 1,443 in elementary and 575 in high school. St. Mary High school is not included in the program.

Pool Much-Used

Forty clinics serving 110 students were conducted, with 107 students completed in 192 appointments.

The pool report showed 47-641 persons went in during the year, 33,528 boys and 14,113 girls.

Gegan told the board 22 old light fixtures stored in the high school attic, were given the fire department for modernizing the station's lighting. They were taken out of the high school years ago and were not salable.

Com Gaertner was informed the special education room in the high school probably will remain there even though junior high will be moved out to the Butte des Morts building. The special education group, under Miss Lucille Pfund, consists of older children who have some parts of their program in common with junior high students.

Insufficient Space

The problem, Gegan said, is space in the Butte des Morts building now under conversion. The building will have only sufficient space for the junior high program.

Next year's kindergarten class at Butte des Morts will have about 80 children according to pre registration figures. The board has decided to consider shifting some children from Butte des Morts, for the coming year only, to Clove-Grove school, which will have adequate space. After next year the new Sixth street school will be finished and able to accommodate the higher enrollments.

The children if shifted will need transportation to Clove-Grove. Com Ted Neely pointed out.

Gegan, Prin L. A. Wenberg and John Novakowski of the junior high school were authorized to attend the annual conference of school administrators at the University of Wisconsin July 20-23.

A letter was filed from John Melner of the state department of public instruction praising the special education facilities at Clove-Grove.

I al- idence said he hoped he could reveal a bit of truth in his own exhaustive searching. His works are represented in the collections of some of the country's leading art galleries.

Born in Chicago, Ill., in 1907 Bohrod is one of the country's outstanding painters and his works have appeared in Life, Fortune, Esquire, and Coronet magazines. He has painted several covers for Time and currently is illustrating the Look magazine articles on "America's Religions."

In World War II he was artist war correspondent for Life magazine in the various theaters of the war and also served with the war art unit of the United States government in the South Pacific.

He has won many art awards.

Regional Painting

During the 1930's Bohrod was a part of the painting movement known as American regionalism. He did a series of paintings then on Chicago life and also painted a series on Kansas City for the Missouri Documentary Art project.

He continued painting "regional" landscapes until 1952, when he became interested in painting still-lives. His style became meticulous and his still lifes were "trompe l'oeil" or "fool the eye" in the effect. Because of this effect, he is now one of the leading painters in the movement called American magic realism.

These paintings take Bohrod four to six months to complete.

His "Animal Kingdom" is an oil on wood which he did in 1957.

Philosophy of Art

Bohrod in outlining his philosophy of art stated that in his paintings there is the kind of fantasy that results from creating a world in the inner consciousness but expressed through the concrete things of the outside world. The orchestration of space, form, color and play of light gives meaning to a subjectless sub-

Scrap U. S. Debt Limit, Institute Says

Trying to Bypass Barrier Has Cost Taxpayers Millions

Washington—A private research organization thinks the national debt limit should be scrapped.

A Brookings institution report said the debt ceiling "has cost taxpayers millions of dollars as the government has sought means to bypass its barrier," and also has:

"Jeopardized long-run national defense policy; interfered with compensatory (spending) measures during recession; hampered proper debt management policy; fostered wasteful government financial management; fostered the budgetary subterfuge; increased the cost of financing the government; and increased the cost of financing the government."

The study said the ceiling curtails to investors at an interest rate of 4.87 per cent being limit that would rise automatically whenever congress to the debt ceiling. The treasury could have borrowed the government income.

Congress under the constitution must control federal difference.

Young Guides for Show in Moscow Hear Talk by Ike

Washington—Seventy-five young Americans who are going to Russia this summer have a wonderful opportunity to help improve the world situation. President Eisenhower told the group Monday.

Eisenhower talked at the White House with youths from all over the United States who will serve as guides at the American exposition opening in Moscow next month.

One of the guides, 22-year-old Peter Meggs, a first-year law student at Harvard, told newsmen afterward that Eisenhower expressed the view that people-to-people contacts provide one of the most important ways for improvement of international relations.

Others in the group, all of whom speak Russian, said the president indicated he would like to see the exposition in Moscow but has no hope of doing so.

State Congressmen Work Hard, Student Interns Declare

BY FRANCES McKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington—If all house members work as hard as those from Wisconsin, then congressional interns generally are underpaid.

Four congressional interns selected by the Wisconsin citizenship clearing house expressed this opinion after working for a week in the offices of Reps. Robert W. Kastenmeier, Watertown Democrat, and John W. Byrnes, Green Bay Republican.

The four college students, chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership and political activity, who have been working in the offices of Reps. Kastenmeier and Byrnes were Richard C. Collins, La Crosse, a junior at La Crosse State college; James J. Granby, Chicago, a Marquette university junior; Gerald Sazama, Milwaukee, another Marquette junior, and Edward Wiegner, Pewaukee, a University of Wisconsin junior.

Regular Routine

The students were impressed by the amount of regular office routine in addition to legislative duties.

Kastenmeier and his office are working full time doing things for their constituents as well as attending to official congressional business," Granby asserted. "I am sure they all more than earn their salaries."

Two of the students were Republicans and two Democrats. They refused to speculate on who would head their respective parties in the next presidential election.

On one thing they agreed, however: that public opinion is influenced much more by the printed page than by radio or television.

"Few people take the time out to hear a news broadcast through every day, but nearly everyone reads at least one daily newspaper and one news magazine," Wiegner said.

Lawrence Says:
Red Academy
Of Sciences
May be Slanted

California Professor
Sees Ideology in Soviet Research

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — What scientists can be believed on such vital questions as nuclear testing — and which ones are truly loyal? How many are used knowingly or unknowingly to advance a communist purpose in international affairs?

These questions would not arise were it not for the established fact that the Soviet government does manipulate its scientists and make them adjust their scientific endeavors to suit the objectives of communism itself.

The full story of what the Soviet Academy of Sciences really is and how it functions as part of the communist party organization is not known generally in the United States. Possibly it is not always known to the Americans and Europeans who are occasionally selected for honorary membership in what is supposedly an association devoted entirely to scientific purposes.

Enlightening Study

A most enlightening study of the Soviet Academy of Sciences has been made on behalf of the Hoover Institute at Stanford university in a book written by Professor Alexander S. Vucinich, an associate professor of sociology at San Jose State college in California. This is the first extended study of the Soviet Academy written in English. Professor Vucinich says in his conclusions:

"It is therefore clear that the academy, with its institutionalized party guidance, governmental authority, and fictitious self-government, is a typical Soviet institution. It is clear also that science in the Soviet Union is actually 'party science' — as, indeed, it is frequently referred to in communist literature. The party hierarchy, through its institutionalized channels, has indisputable power in determining how much research and what kind of research done, which scientific endeavors take precedence over which others, and upon what ideological foundations Soviet science shall be based."

"The party organization, in turn, makes it clear that the academy is fully subservient to the communist hierarchy. Obviously, the real 'general staff of Soviet Science' is outside the academy. All in all, the communist network in the academy is assigned the task of defending the party's vested interests in science, curbing deviationist tendencies, and 'persuading' the recalcitrants to fall into line."

Moves Forces

"Whatever the techniques of communist operation, the scholar's fear of ultimate retaliation and the party's power to move coercive forces into operation are the causes of its success."

The system of control is such that the leading positions in the academy's organization are occupied by minor scientists and persons who have hardly anything in common with the scientific work.

"Some of these," writes Professor Vucinich, "are typical party organizers, the highly mobile communist workers known as rigid disciplinarians and masters of all the tricks of molding party units in a efficient but strictly authoritarian work-ways."

Interpret Ideology

"Although minor scholars occupy the most influential positions within the academy's party organization, the major scholars are as a rule the chief interpreters of communist ideology. Every change in the party's policy, every shift in political emphasis, and every occasion of ideological import is brought to the attention of, or clarified or interpreted for, the academy's scientific elite by a small group of communist academicians."

When Soviet scientists therefore come to the United States or Canada for conferences with American scientists, it is natural that there should be suspicion attached to the purpose of the mission of these communists.

In the United States there has been criticism of those scientists who have become identified with political and ideological movements. In the Soviet Union, on the other hand, the scientists are constantly being pressed into the making of political declarations to conform to the

Charlie Afforded Warm Welcome by Kaukauna

Mayor Bayorgeon Grooms Traveler On Historic Site

Kaukauna — A weary traveler and a warm welcome. Charlie House received a warm welcome from the people of Kaukauna Monday as he passed through the historic locks on the Fox river. The traveler was greeted by hundreds of children and adults many seeking autographs or pictures. The traveler had a bright smile and cheery word for all before continuing his journey upriver.

Children on bicycles and adults in cars hurried ahead trying to get another glimpse of him further upriver. Many were amazed at the small craft in which he was making his journey. All wondered at the small amount of gear he carried.

Children were skeptical when parents informed them of the traveler lived on fish and frogs and crayfish for much of his journey.

Weather Bureau Bows to Heat on Discomfort Index

BY JAY REED
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

They're putting the heat on the discomfort index.

Gasping in the heavy humidity of controversy, the weather bureau today said its single measure of conditions which make people uncomfortable will be known, henceforth, as the temperature-humidity index.

Tourist-conscious businessmen, it was said, are responsible for the change. They complained the index was reminding prospective visitors that the weather might not be comfortable all the time.

Whether or not the new name will stick is a moot question at this point. Already the suggestions are rolling in. It could be called an air condition value or a human reaction scale. But the wags are at work. One has suggested "toler-rate." Another, without hesitation, spit out "expectorate," undoubtedly thinking of the precipitation and humidity concepts involved.

Weather stations, however, are free to call it what they will. The term here in Appleton will remain discomfort.

The state has four inspectors who operate from funds accumulated from plumbers' license fees.

When Albert Kobussen, local plumbers' union business agent, claimed he instituted the drive for compliance, Koenig denied it. Koenig said the move was building as a result of trouble in Milwaukee some months before Kobussen contacted him.

Assemblyman Kenneth E. Pribe offered to sponsor legislation, if someone would suggest what to do, to smooth out the situation.

A plumber in the audience told him to leave things alone, the plumbers like it as is.

Escaper, His Stepdaughter Admit Charges

Girl Gets Probation For Cashing Notes Written by Stepfather

An Appleton man and his stepdaughter pleaded guilty to worthless and forged check charges in municipal court Monday.

Edward G. Bloomer, 42, Appleton, admitted writing a $25 check on an Appleton bank. He was returned to the Outagamie county jail pending a 2-week pre-sentence investigation.

Gets Probation
Darlene Meredith, 20, who gave her address as 1103 W. Lawrence street, admitted cashing a $30 check, written by Bloomer, at an Appleton supermarket. She was placed on probation to the state welfare department for two years.

Police said they have complaints on nine bad checks cashed by the pair in the Fox Cities area, mostly in Appleton. The checks total $235. The checks were passed in a 2-day period between May 27 and 29.

Wrote Checks
Bloomer told the court that he wrote the checks and had the girl cash them.

The pair was arrested in Neenah Saturday.

Bloomer was serving a 1-year sentence in the county jail for writing bad checks about a year and a half ago. He absconded while on a weekend pass last fall.

71-Man Field Will Compete in 6th Fox Cities Golf Meet

Late Rush Swells Entry List To 2nd Highest in History

The cast is complete for trophy. BDM has seven entries to compete for the team golf show—and a formidable trophy it has won in three of the five years of the tourney to date.

A flock of deadline-shading entries changed the field for the Fox Cities amateur from one of the smallest in the 6-year history of the tourney into the second largest.

A total of 71 competitors—including practically all of the outstanding private club and public course players in the Fox Cities—are scheduled to duel for individual and team supremacy.

The last group of Muni entrants included "Babe" Bayner, John Hurley, Henry Hackbarth, Harold Swenson, Bill Gmerner, Art Nielsen, Bob Duszak, Owen Hurley, Dennis Babb, Gary Krick, Dave Wittwer, Bob Zimmerman, Bill Tordor, Gil Stordock, Al Baerenswald, Tom McKenny, Paul Schmidt, Mike Smock and Elmer Vandenberg.

The field is headed by current champion Lindberg and past champions Don Strutz, Don Jabas and Herb Stinski. Thirteen of the best 16 composite scorers in the tourney's annals will be among those vying for laurels this weekend.

Another good team fight is in the offing, with five of the Fox Cities' seven courses qualifying the necessary five or more men to compete for the

Drysdale's 4-Hitter Stops Braves, 4-0

Milwaukee's Lead Cut To 1 Game

By the Associated Press
Just a month ago Milwaukee was riding a hot streak to a 4-game bulge in the National league race. Now the Braves have a limp lead of one game with their sluggers shackled by shutouts.

The Braves were blanked only eight times last year as they put away a second straight pennant. Now, with little more than a third of the season gone, they've been whitewashed six times—more than any other NL club except Philadelphia. Even the last place Phillies have suffered no more.

The champs were handed two consecutive shutouts for the first time in four years Monday night at Los Angeles when the Dodgers made off with a 4-0 victory behind the 4-hit pitching of Don Drysdale.

2nd Shutout
The lanky right-hander's second shutout of the year sliced Milwaukee's lead over second place San Francisco to .019 in the only NL game scheduled.

The Braves now have lost 15 games while winning only 13 since taking that 4-game lead last month. They have been shut out five times in the slump.

They have dropped five of their last seven and eight of 12, losing, 6-0, to the Cubs' Dick Drott Sunday before bumping into Drysdale.

Bob Buhl (6-4), who had won four in a row, battled Drysdale (6-5) in a scoreless duel until the seventh inning. Then the Dodgers, who had been check on five hits, broke loose for all four runs.

A walk and an interference ruling against catcher Del Crandall set it up. "Junior" Gilliam doubled the first run home. Wally Moon collected the other three with his third homer.

Pitcher Lew Burdette (9-5) will face Johnny Podres (7-2) of Los Angeles in the second Green Bay — Who said 270-pound tackles are hard to find?

That's the usual cry at the City, 8-5, with Harmon Killebrew hammering his twenty-cause college tackles and second home run for the Senators, in the only other game.

The Indians backed up Gary Bell's 3-hit pitching with solo homers by Jim Baxes and Woody Heid and a clinching 3-run shot by Minnie Minoos, who broke a 1-1 tie by tagging an 0-2 pitch in the fourth inning.

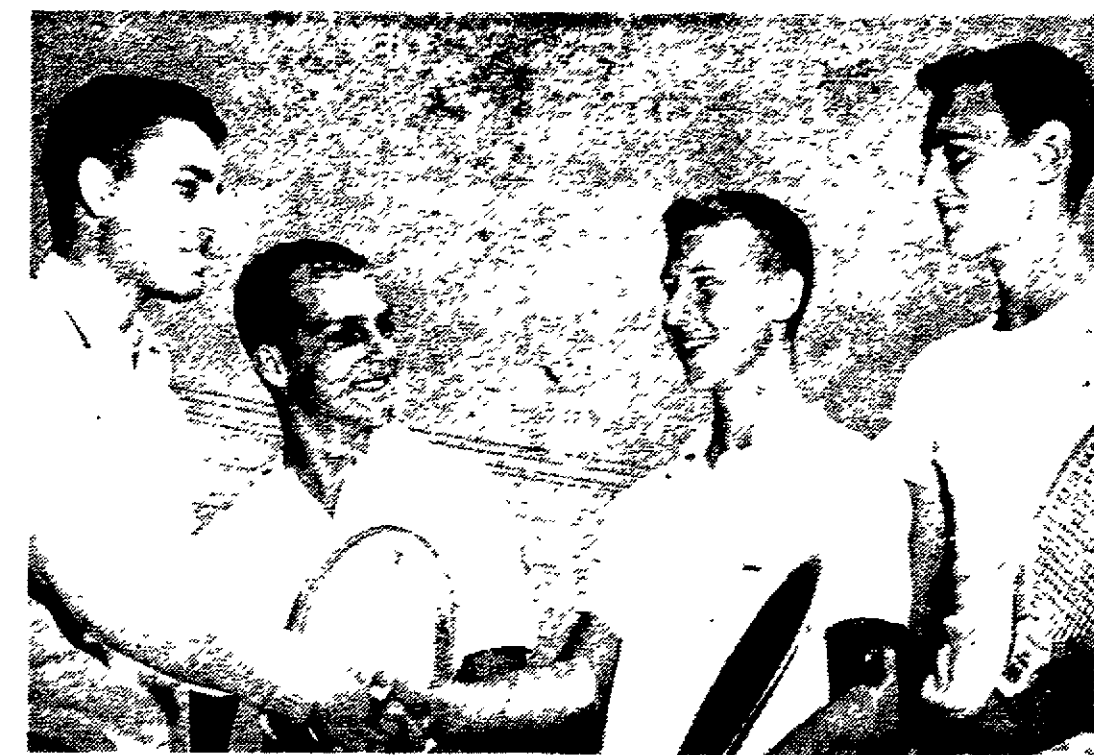

The Indians, who hit only five home runs while losing nine of 10 games in a skid from the top, now have belted 17 homers in their streak—one shy of the AL record for six games set by the 1936 Yankees. It all began last Wednesday, when Rocky Colavito triggered the blasting with his record-tying four in one game at Baltimore.

Since then, Cleveland has missed hitting a home run in only one game. Colavito is the only one game. Minoos is next with four, three in three games in won a grid letter as a Ghost.

"If I stay in baseball it will be with Milwaukee." Haney said he had not discussed his status with Milwaukee officials and that, in fact, he hadn't expected to say anything about it at this time, except that "this just came from my heart."

John McHale, the Braves' general manager, said in Milwaukee he was surprised at Haney's statement. "This is the first we've heard of it," said McHale.

They played "out of the park or it doesn't count" in the Three-I league game at Sioux City Monday.

Cedar Rapids won, 9-8, mainly because it had four home runs to three for the Soos in the long-range hitting contest.

Meanwhile, Des Moines boosted its first place bulge to three games by trimming last - place Burlington, 11-1, while second-place Green Bay was losing to Topeka, 5-2. Third-place Lincoln fell four games off the pace after a 9-7 loss to Fox Cities.

Three of Cedar Rapids' homers were hit during a 5-run rally in the second inning. Ray Reed and Sid Goldfader connected with the bases empty and Ed Kopacz unloaded with two aboard.

Wayne Graham batted in six runs to support the 5-hit pitching of Des Moines' Joe Pokorny. The Demons rapped out six doubles.

Topeka got only five hits against Green Bay but four came during a 5-run burst in the sixth. Bill Dasher had a 2-run homer.

Don Drysdale Whitewashes Braves, 4-0

game of a five-contest series tonight.
Drysdale fanned 12 Braves in gaining the victory and remained the major league's strikeout leader, with a season total of 103.
Buhl surrendered only five hits going into the seventh inning and only one of these got to the outfield. But then Don Zimmer walked with one out and Drysdale dropped a bunt down the first base line.
Crandall, pursuing the ball, obstructed Drysdale as he ran down the line and the big pitcher was awarded first base as Zimmer went to second.
Gilliam then doubled off the screen in left field, scoring Zimmer with the game's first run. Moon followed with his third homer of the season, a 390-foot shot over the right field barrier.
Braves Have Chance
The Braves had a chance at scoring in the second as Wes Covington led off with an infield hit and Frank Torre singled into left field. But Bill Bruton bounced into a double play and Crandall struck out.
Buhl was faced with a similar situation in the Dodger second inning as Gil Hodges beat out a dribbler toward third and Frank Howard lined a single to left. Buhl got Don Demeter to hit into a double play and then struck out John Roseboro.
"Casey" Wise hit safely for the Braves to open the sixth and then died on base when Eddie Mathews swatted a liner to Howard. Henry Aaron came up to foul out and Covington was a strikeout.
Buhl was in trouble briefly in the fifth when John Roseboro got an infield hit and with one out Wise dropped Buhl's assist on Drysdale's double play grounder. Buhl, obviously upset, walked Gilliam to fill the bases but then struck out Moon to end the threat.

Johannson Defends His Training Methods

Grossinger, N. Y. — P— In stand why he is criticized for censored at reports that he hasn't been taking his training seriously. Inezmar Johannson came to his own defense today.
"I have been out dancing just twice," the Swedish challenger for Floyd Patterson's world heavyweight championship said. "And I have been on just two television programs."
Favorably Impressed
Johannson, the undefeated European champion who meets Patterson for the title June 25 in Yankee stadium, is upset at reports that he lacks enthusiasm for his task. Likewise, he can't under-were selected to play in the College All-Star game by Coach Otto Graham. They are end Boyd Dowler, guard Any Cvercko and halfback Bobby Jackson, respectively. They'll oppose the Baltimore Colts in Chicago Aug. 14. Jackson, pretty much of an unknown, was one of 12 backs chosen and Cvercko is one of 13 Big Ten athletes picked. The stars start training at Northwestern university July 23.

The Packers' Lombardi, considered one of the best blackboard lecturers in football, is taking part in the fifth annual All-American coaches clinic at Bemidji, Minn., this week. He and Jack Mollenkopf of Purdue are heading the football side of the clinic. They have been joined by Steve Myhra, the Colts' place-kicking specialist, and Marv Helling, University of North Dakota coach.

Pearson Is Junior Boys Champion
John Wendt Cops Boys Title in JC Net Tourney
Dick Pearson will compete in two events during the state Junior Chamber of Commerce junior tennis tournament in Oshkosh July 10-12.
Pearson won the Appleton junior boys' title last weekend by defeating Marty Semmelhack, 6-2, 1-6, 6-1 in the finals. Then, Pearson teamed with Semmelhack to down John Cover and Terry Schroeder, 6-2, 6-1, in the junior boys doubles finals.
In the boys (age 15 and under) singles finals of the sixth annual Appleton JC tourney, John Wendt beat Jerry Bishop, 8-6, 6-4, to win the crown.

When Darrell Brewster quit, Paul Brown needed an offensive end desperately. He got one in Howton who has as much ability as anybody.
"I know that Howton wasn't up to par the past couple of seasons but that Brown is either a swami or a great coach because he's a cinch to get Bill back in his first-year form, which was only terrific."

In the boys semis, Wendt beat Jim Pearson, 6-4, 6-3; and Bishop downed John Kading, 6-3, 6-4.

breeze for Bell, who struck out nine but walked six while claiming a 6-5 record. The young right-hander had trouble only from Jackie Jensen, who followed Pete Runnels' single with an RBI double in the other Red Sox hit in the sixth.
The Tigers, who have won six of their last seven, made three in a row after getting only two infield hits for five innings off Wilhelm (9-1), who had won 10 straight since last September 16. Then they rapped the knuckle-balling right-hander for four hits and three runs in the sixth, ending his string of scoreless innings at 19.
Kuenn Regains Lead
Singles by Eddie Yost, Al Kaline and Larry Osborne, plus a double by Harvey Kuenn, Charlie Maxwell's sacrifice fly and a passed ball, did it. Then Kuenn, who was 3-for-5 and regained the AL bat lead from Kaline (.361 to .357), put it away with a two-run homer in the seventh—the first off Wilhelm in 115 innings stretching back to a home run by Kaline last September 12.

The Braves had a chance at scoring in the second as Wes Covington led off with an infield hit and Frank Torre singled into left field. But Bill Bruton bounced into a double play and Crandall struck out.
Buhl was faced with a similar situation in the Dodger second inning as Gil Hodges beat out a dribbler toward third and Frank Howard lined a single to left. Buhl got Don Demeter to hit into a double play and then struck out John Roseboro.
"Casey" Wise hit safely for the Braves to open the sixth and then died on base when Eddie Mathews swatted a liner to Howard. Henry Aaron came up to foul out and Covington was a strikeout.
Buhl was in trouble briefly in the fifth when John Roseboro got an infield hit and with one out Wise dropped Buhl's assist on Drysdale's double play grounder. Buhl, obviously upset, walked Gilliam to fill the bases but then struck out Moon to end the threat.

Trend Mixed On Exchange

Aluminums and Some Steel Issues Lead Advances

New York —(P)—Aluminums and selected steels made progress in a mixed stock market early this afternoon. Trading was slow.

Gains and losses of key stocks ranged from fractions to about a point. The popular market averages were down slightly but gains by issues not represented in the averages produced some bright spots in the list.

The aluminums resumed their advance of last week on glowing industry reports, spurred further by talk today of a price increase if labor negotiations result in a wage boost.

Youngstown Sheet spurred more than 4 while Lukens gained 2 points or so. U. S. Steel dropped about a point. Jones & Laughlin gained slightly.

Chrysler was ahead a bit. Ford and General Motors eased. Goodyear continued its recent upsurge, added more than a point. American Telephone backed away another fraction.
